An event which has for a year past been looked forward to by every citizen of East Liverpool was carried out this afternoon, when the dedication of the Carnegie library took place. The exercises, which were of a high order, were held in the upstairs reading room at the right of the rotunda and were listened to by a large congregation of interested and enthusiastic people.

Music which was furnished by the Liederkranz Singing society was appropriate and highly pleasing. It was about 3 o'clock when President George Peach, of the library board, called for order, after which an impressive prayer was made by Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart. The program as carried out follows:

Music—Liederkranz.
Address—W. E. Wells.
Address—Prof. R. E. Rayman.
Music—Liederkranz.
Presentation of public library to Carnegie library—D. M. McLane.
Acceptance and presentation of Carnegie library to city—John J. Purinton.
Acceptance—Mayor W. C. Davidson.
Music—Liederkranz.
The reception to the public will take place this evening from 7 to 11. Nowling's orchestra will furnish the music.

HOW THE DONATION WAS OBTAINED

On an afternoon in the month of May, 1899, the initial steps leading up to the building of the East Liverpool Carnegie library were taken. It was in the office of Herbert & Travis that the matter was first talked over, Mr. E. Miskall being the gentleman to first offer a suggestion to address a letter to Mr. Carnegie, who was then in Scotland.

No action of an official nature had ever been yet thought of at the time Messrs. Miskall, Herbert and Travis reached the decision to communicate with Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Travis wrote the letter at the time the library proposition was first talked over, and on July 15 a reply was received from James Bertram, private secretary to Mr. Carnegie, stating that $50,000 would be given to East Liverpool, provided the city would furnish a site and give $3,000 a year for the maintenance of a library as proposed.

The secretary's letter was submitted to council with the result that the proposition was at once accepted, though, of course, the purchase of a site had to be left to a vote by the citizens and bonds issued therefor. The site looked on with most favor was that on which the library building now stands. It was owned by the Bradshaw heirs.

Fearing that the property might be sold before the city could arrange for its purchase, 20 leading citizens put up $1,000 each and by so doing held the location until the city was enabled to buy it. The election for the sale of bonds in the sum of $20,000 was held as soon as possible, the issue carrying with little opposition. The site was sold at public auction and was obtained by the city for $20,000. The bonds were sold to General J. W. Reilly, of Wellsville, a premium of $1,435 being realized, thus making the exact cost of the site $18,565.

This transaction gave unmistakable evidence that the much talked of library was sure to become a reality and there was general rejoicing. The gentleman who had first interested themselves in the matter continued the good work which they started and lent valuable aid in shaping the necessary details for commencing the building.

A board of directors was appointed by the city council, composed of Col. John N. Taylor, W. L. Smith, F. D. Kitchel, Dr. George P. Ikirt, George Peach and J. H. Brookes. A number of resignations have since taken place with the result that the personnel of the board has been changed so that the following are the present members: George Peach, Thomas Collins, W. L. Smith, G. Y. Travis, J. J. Purinton and W. L. Thompson.

must clothe, shelter and feed his family. After these necessities are once supplied he may cultivate and gratify his taste for the luxuries and refinements of life. The forest must first be felled before the soil may be cultivated; the weeds must be conquered before the flowers may bloom. The city must be paved, drained and lighted before the parks, fountains and boulevards are constructed. After the church and school, the necessities of modern civilization, comes the library, which is the luxury of this generation, but which will be the necessity of the next.

ous achievements along mechanical and scientific lines in the past century, and the distinguishing characteristics of the new century were described as the "death of intolerance" and the beginning of concord—concord in business, religion, between nations and between employer and employee. We see Christian and Jew, Catholic and Protestant, working side by side and shoulder to shoulder, often on the same platform, for the common purpose of obliterating ignorance and winning knowledge.

Instead of the old-time business warfare which has strewn the commercial shores with the wrecks of enterprise, we see the captains of industry marshaling together the great enterprises for the purpose of defending themselves, armies of workmen

EAST LIVERPOOL CARNEGIE LIBRARY.

About the first work done by the board was to advertise for plans, preparatory to awarding the contract for the construction of the building. Drawings and plans of every description were received from architects all over the country, more than 30 different ones making bids for the work. After much consideration the decision was finally reached to accept the plans submitted by A. W. Scott, of this city, and in a short while thereafter the contract for the erection of the structure was awarded to Harvey McHenry.

The progress of the work has been watched by everyone in the entire city and, hence, needs no special mention other than well merited commendation. The beauty of design and the almost marvelous display of mechanism shown in its construction reflect a limitless degree of credit on those of the contractors, workmen, architect and all who had any connection with the building of the stately edifice.

While the populace of East Liverpool is almost a unit in an expression of gratefulness to Mr. Carnegie for his substantial gift, yet it should not be overlooked that there are others to whom the citizens should feel indebted because of their zealous and untiring efforts in securing the library which is destined to work an inestimable amount of good for this growing city. Great care and wisdom have been shown by the board of directors in the important duties under their charge, and the ceremonies of today dedicating the splendid library which has so long been held in grateful anticipation by an appreciating public, speak volumes in praises for their services and will in years to come serve as a monument to perpetuate a work that never fails to leave its reward.

W. E. WELLS' ADDRESS ON LIBRARY USES

MANY MODERN SIGNS OF TRUE
PHILANTHROPY.

The Good Old Days Not to Be Gretted—Death of Intolerance at Hand.

W. D. Wells said at the opening of his speech:

The establishment and use of libraries, the development of intellectual centers, the cultivation of the aesthetic side of life, come only with the accumulation of wealth, the establishment of social peace and order and the opportunity for leisure.

In the early days of nations and communities, the struggle for existence is all-absorbing. Man must first provide for his temporal wants. He

the elevating recreations of literature and art; and to a student of the times there is no more interesting or gratifying phase of the fruits of this phenomenal prosperity than the founding of libraries, the endowment of colleges and the encouragement of higher intellectual and moral living by the entire people.

NOBLE EXAMPLES OF GENEROSITY.

The speaker declared that the outcry against the amassing of great fortunes could not long endure, with the example of Andrew Carnegie, Cecil Rhodes and Mrs. Leland Stanford generally followed. He alluded to the princely public benefactions of the past decade as surpassing in munificence anything recorded in history, and saw hopeful signs that the holders of great wealth are more and more coming to regard their possessions as a great trust to be administered for the benefit and improvement of their fellow-men.

This is true philanthropy. There can be no more graceful or appropriate gift than that of a library. The people now enjoy comfort and plenty. In the library they may behold the bright countenance of truth and the delightful air of quick studies, and may, if they will, seek and find the liberal education of which they were deprived by the hardships of their youth.

In the true universality of these days, a collection books, our sons and daughters may take a post-graduate course, coming into communion with the great minds and the best thought of the past and the present. Books and libraries nourish genius and create artists and authors. The doctrine that all men are free and equal was that on which the republic of America was founded. There can be no equality except by the eradication of ignorance and the elevation of scholarship.

We are entering upon the real work of triumphant democracy. The real liberator and equalizer is universal education. The forces which can bring this about are the reformed and liberal church, the library and the printing press.

The humblest American may receive the rudiments of an education denied to all but the princes of the earth in the old days, when theology and intolerance shivered the air; when political differences involved the country in fratricidal war; when ruinous business competition between the great industries drove us into panic periodically. God preserve us from the "good old days!"

Our library was constructed and equipped in this spirit. There is no more hopeful sign for the future than that this building is the donation of capital and the books which are its life and soul the donations of labor. May both alike enjoy its benefits.

These libraries had a marked influence upon the scholars of that early period. They lacked, however, that large influence which the libraries of more recent times offer to the masses, or to all who will partake of the riches found in these storehouses filled with the best of thought and culture of the past.

Before speaking of the function of the public library it seems entirely fitting that your attention should be called to the extent of the library movement. Later even traveling library departments were arranged and very successfully conducted.

The idea of largeness is as thoroughly demonstrated in the library movement as in any other department of human interest. The growth of public libraries has been most marked in the very recent years of our history. The United States bureau of education has published a report showing that the number of libraries of 1,000 volumes or more in 1900 was 5,383, containing 44,591,851 volumes.

It would be a difficult undertaking to attempt to give a complete history of the formation of the old library or give credit to all who assisted in the arduous task of bringing about the institution which is now a part of the Carnegie library.

Months and years of hard work are represented in the collection of books which, until a few days ago, were under the charge of the directors of the old library. It was early in the year of 1896 that the members of the Trades and Labor Council began at their meetings a series of discussions with a view of determining a means of benefiting the laboring classes of the city, and also to devise plans for the perpetuation of the names of the different labor organizations.

Various suggestions were offered, among them being the one for the institution of a library. A committee was appointed, composed of Messrs. A. S. Hughes, William Rhue, Thomas Mountford, C. W. These recommendations were favorably acted on and without delay the work of soliciting money was begun. The first cash realized was collected from 25 employees of the old Specialty glass house, each of whom donated 25 cents. In order to more systematically canvass the city other committees were appointed to go among the business men, professional men, manufacturers and others.

On June 16 of the same year sufficient funds had been collected to give substantial encouragement to the library project and it was decided at a meeting on that date to appoint directors and secure a location. Eleven directors were named at the meeting and on June 19 the appointees met for organization. Jacob Welsend was made president, Charles Danburg secretary, and E. M. Crosser treasurer. Plans were discussed at the meeting for increasing the funds then on hand and a decision was reached to sell membership tickets.

The directors agreed to take 100 tickets each and work in different sections of the city. The sale of the tickets being somewhat slow was the cause of no little discouragement. To William Rhue, who was one of the directors, is due the credit of giving much needed inspiration to the movement which was then apparently incapable of successful accomplishment. A hundred membership tickets, each to be sold for $1, were given in his charge, and with a strong determination to see the proposed project become a reality, he began a canvass of the territory assigned him. Before giving up his task Mr. Rhue sold his entire number of tickets with the exception of two or three.

When properly conducted it should, and we believe, that it does become a most powerful element in community life. In a library of efficiency and power the children are not only taught how, but what to read, for, as Charles W. Warner once said, 'If we teach the children how to read, and stop there we have done but half our duty, and, we believe, it is by far the smaller half.'

"The great secret of reading consists in this—that it does not matter

cent of the proceeds of the Labor day celebration in 1897. The first financial reports, which were made on September 1, 1897, showed that the library board had collected $420, while the expenses amounted to about $395. Hence, it is apparent that there was not a superabundance of finances on hand.

In the latter part of 1897, W. E. Wells, who had previously been elected a member of the board of directors made a suggestion to appeal for the assessment of a levy from the school board sufficient to maintain the library. J. N. Hanley, another member of the board, appealed to Andrew Carnegie for aid, as well as to other philanthropists, but this scheme did not bring about the desired results.

However, in the course of a few weeks following the suggestion of Mr. Wells to apply for a levy, the board was increased to 15 members on the advice of Attorney J. H. Brookes. A. H. Clark, Prof. R. E. Rayman, Samuel Eardley and Harry Peach were added, and in March, 1899, incorporation papers were secured. Later in the same year the first assessment, amounting to a levy of 3.5 mills was received from the school board. The sum received was about $430, representing the allowance for half a year. Since that time an allowance of $900 a year has been forthcoming from the school board, but since the merging of the old with the Carnegie library the city assumes the obligation formerly borne by the school board.

Henry E. Porter, also one of the directors, was the first to offer a donation of books. Dr. George P. Ikirt, John J. Purinton and others also made valuable contributions. In 1898 the library was increased with 100 books, while in 1899 there were 53 volumes donated. On January 1, 1900, the librarian's report showed that there were over 1,500 volumes in her charge and since then the list has been increased until at the time of the consolidation of the two libraries more than 2,500 volumes were at the disposal of the public.

Miss Hattie Curry was appointed the first librarian, but before taking her office she became ill and died. Miss Minta McLane was then appointed and on December 1, 1896, assumed her duties, filling the position with credit to herself and satisfactorily to every one until the consolidation took place, at which time Miss Gertrude Baker, the present librarian of the Carnegie institution, was appointed.

The history of the merging of the two libraries is too well known to need further elaboration. It required special legislation to consummate the consolidation, but this was put through without difficulty a few weeks since. The new measure provides for the addition of three members from the old library board to that of the six members of the Carnegie board.

At the last meeting of the city council Thomas Collins was appointed to succeed J. H. Brookes, whose term has expired, leaving three additional members yet to appoint.

Special credit is due to Thomas Hodge, who was one of the hardest

WATER SHUT OFF

ALL SORTS OF LAMENTATION IN CHAFFINVILLE.

So Many Were Getting Water Free That Drastic Measures Were Taken.

Superintendent Phil Morley, of the water works department, shut the water off in Chaffinville, and this morning there was all sorts of howling in the East End. Notices have been served on residents that water rent must be paid, and as only half of the population of Chaffinville have been paying rent, and at the same time water was being secured by the other half free, the water works department decided to take severe measures.

In one instance there is no less than six families procuring water from one hydrant in Chaffinville who pay nothing for the accommodation. There are others who have paid their rent, and now their supply has been cut off. But the ultimatum of the water works department has been sent forth. Hydrants in the yards must be removed to the house, and they must be shut off only in case of use. If the rent for service is not paid, the water will be secured from the small run, north of Pennsylvania avenue. Provision will be made for those who have complied with the rules of the department, but those who have not done so will have to suffer.

ADDITIONAL KILNS

Several Are Soon to Be Built at the East End Sewer Pipe Works.

Announcement has been made that before long some important additions are to be made at the East End plant of the American Sewer Pipe plant. Last year Mr. Anderson said it was the intention of the company to erect several new kilns, but since then the conditions have been such that the firm has not been able to carry out its intentions.

Now that the new engine is about ready to start, the intentions of the company will be carried out. It will not be long until the order for the brick for the new kilns, and as soon as these arrive they will be built. This increased capacity means that the company will have to add to its force of workmen.

Street Paving Wanted.

There is a growing opinion among the property owners of St. George street that council should do something this summer toward improving that thoroughfare by paving. This is one of the best residence streets in the East End, and is also one that is extensively traveled. Mulberry street also should be paved, and at best it is one of the worst looking streets in the city on account of the uneven grade.

WOMEN QUARREL

MINERVA STREET NEIGHBORS SUE EACH OTHER.

Each is Charged With Assault and Battery — One Pleads Guilty.

From the east end of Minerva street, near the Buckeye pottery, originates another story which like many others coming from this district will terminate in Squire McCarron's court. The principals involved are Mrs. Delora Barnhart and Mrs. Carrie Bushong, next door neighbors. The former in a highly indignant manner entered the 'squire's sanctum yesterday afternoon and after unfolding a tale overflowing with woeful accent, had a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. Bushong, charging her with assault and battery.

Constable Powell was armed with the papers and sent after the woman. No difficulty was met by the officer and he in a very short time had her in the court's presence. To the charge Mrs. Bushong pleaded guilty and sentence was given, but was immediately suspended upon her payment of the costs. In giving her side of the story Mrs. Bushong said: "I live next door to old Delora Barnhart. We both use water coming from the same hydrant. I nearly always send my children for the water I need. Her kids and mine have been fighting of late and she took it up today. So when she came over in my yard I gave her a lickin', and you know the rest all but this—I want you to arrest Delora now for assaulting and battering me and for saying bad things about me and my children."

The 'squire did as requested, issuing a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Barnhart on two charges—assault and battery and making libelous remarks. Her case is set for a hearing at 4 o'clock this evening.

WOMEN QUARREL

MINERVA STREET NEIGHBORS SUE EACH OTHER.

Each is Charged With Assault and Battery—One Pleads Guilty.

From the east end of Minerva street, near the Buckeye pottery, originates another story which like many others coming from this district will terminate in Squire McCarron's court. The principals involved are Mrs. Delora Barnhart and Mrs. Carrie Bushong, next door neighbors. The former in a highly indignant manner entered the 'squire's sanctum yesterday afternoon and after unfolding a tale overflowing with woeful accent, had a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. Bushong, charging her with assault and battery.

Constable Powell was armed with the papers and sent after the woman. No difficulty was met by the officer and he in a very short time had her in the court's presence. To the charge Mrs. Bushong pleaded guilty and sentence was given, but was immediately suspended upon her payment of the costs. In giving her side of the story Mrs. Bushong said: "I live next door to old Delora Barnhart. We both use water coming from the same hydrant. I nearly always send my children for the water I need. Her kids and mine have been fighting of late and she took it up today. So when she came over in my yard I gave her a lickin', and you know the rest all but this—I want you to arrest Delora now for assaulting and battering me and for saying bad things about me and my children."

The 'squire did as requested, issuing a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Barnhart on two charges—assault and battery and making libelous remarks. Her case is set for a hearing at 4 o'clock this evening.

POPE LAMENTS DEATH

Cablegram From Vatican Expressing Sorrow at Demise of Corrigan.

MASSSES WERE CELEBRATED.

Body of the Archbishop Now Lies in State in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Being Taken There Yesterday Morning—Thousands View Remains.

New York, May 8.—The Rev. Dr. Ferranti, Italian secretary to Archbishop Corrigan, made public last night a cablegram which was received at the archiepiscopal residence from Cardinal Rampolla, pontifical secretary of state at Rome, expressing the sorrow of Pope Leo at the demise of Mgr. Corrigan. The cablegram was addressed to the Rev. Dr. Ferranti and is as follows:

"The holy father with great sorrow learns of the death of the grand archbishop, whom he hoped to see in Rome very soon. His holiness, who appreciates very highly the especial merits of the dead prelate, expresses his sympathy from the depth of his heart for the Metropolitan church of New York and he prays God to give to the soul of the great archbishop the repose of the just and the premium of eternal glory."

(Signed) "Rampolla, Pontifical Secretary of State."

Masses for the repose of the soul of Archbishop Corrigan were said yesterday at St. Patrick's cathedral and were largely attended. The 6 o'clock masses were celebrated by the Rev. Father Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, and the Rev. Father Daly; at 7 o'clock the Rev. George W. Corrigan, a brother of the dead archbishop, and Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester, officiated, and at 8 o'clock the Rt. Rev. Ignatius Sanchez de Oca, bishop of San Luis Potosi, and the Rev. Father McAleer, of the cathedral clergy, were the celebrants.

Later in the morning the body of the archbishop was carried into the cathedral and placed at the end of the center aisle and just in front of the altar. The head was placed toward the altar and was elevated, so that the mourners could see the face of the dead prelate when half way down the center aisle.

At the time there were thousands of persons grouped about the cathedral awaiting the hour when the doors would be opened, so that they might have an opportunity to pay a last tribute of respect to the archbishop.

The body was attired in the funeral robes.

After the body was taken into the cathedral a service was held, at which Fathers Phelan, McCreedy and Flood pronounced the absolution of the dead.

When the doors were thrown open to the public lines were formed by the police and everything possible was done to give every one an opportunity to see the dead prelate's face for the last time.

I have recommended it to many and they always speak very highly of it and declare its merits are wonderful." For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

(Signed) "Rampolla, Pontifical Secretary of State."

Masses for the repose of the soul of Archbishop Corrigan were said yesterday at St. Patrick's cathedral and were largely attended. The 6 o'clock masses were celebrated by the Rev. Father Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, and the Rev. Father Daly; at 7 o'clock the Rev. George W. Corrigan, a brother of the dead archbishop, and Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester, officiated, and at 8 o'clock the Rt. Rev. Ignatius Sanchez de Oca, bishop of San Luis Potosi, and the Rev. Father McAleer, of the cathedral clergy, were the celebrants.

Later in the morning the body of the archbishop was carried into the cathedral and placed at the end of the center aisle and just in front of the altar. The head was placed toward the altar and was elevated, so that the mourners could see the face of the dead prelate when half way down the center aisle.

At the time there were thousands of persons grouped about the cathedral awaiting the hour when the doors would be opened, so that they might have an opportunity to pay a last tribute of respect to the archbishop. The body was attired in the funeral robes.

After the body was taken into the cathedral a service was held, at which Fathers Phelan, McCreedy and Flood pronounced the absolution of the dead.

When the doors were thrown open to the public lines were formed by the police and everything possible was done to give every one an opportunity to see the dead prelate's face for the last time.

The Best Liniment
"I have derived great benefit, from the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism and lumbago," says Mrs. Anna Magelans, of Tuckahoe, N. J. THE LIBRARY OPENING.

The Carnegie library, a beautiful building in which the city takes a just pride, is now open to the public. It is ready for use. Equipped with between 5,000 and 6,000 volumes, which will be added to constantly, it will furnish lovers of literature with abundant opportunities for mental recreation and increased knowledge. All that need be said regarding the advantages and benefits to a city of maintaining such an institution is impressively and eloquently set forth in the able speeches published in this number of the News Review. Not only has East Liverpool reason to be proud of its library, but it has also abundant reason for pride and satisfaction in the thought that she has speakers—without importing them—who are able to do full justice to a theme so inspiring and important as the present occasion affords.

As is emphasized in the speeches, the best way the people of the city can show their appreciation of the beautiful and costly gift to them, is by making constant use of it. There is no fear that this advice will not be taken, and the value of the gift to the city will become more and more appreciated with each passing year. The library will be found to improve the morals of the city, as well as its educational tone, unless the experience of East Liverpool is different from that of other cities where such institutions are maintained. It will help to keep young people off the streets and out of questionable resorts, and will prove a blessing in manifold ways.

The present is an excellent time to appeal for donations of books. There must be thousands of volumes in this city which are neglected by their owners, which would be highly serviceable to the public if placed in the library. Citizens should search through their books and see what they can spare that the library needs.

Tillman, in the language of the small boy, appears to be "engineerin' for a lickin'." He should get it from his state in the shape of defeat in his aspirations for another term.

Lord Salisbury is apparently not a peace at any price man. His latest declaration shows that the Boers must bow to England's will or the struggle will continue.

Those Missourians are camping on the trail of the beef trust. When they begin pouring hot shot, they usually hit the mark.

As usual on important occasions, East Liverpool will conduct the library dedication in first-class style.

A REORGANIZATION OF NATIONAL BOARD

The Scheme to Be Presented to the Brotherhood Convention.

LOCALS TO TALK BUSINESS

Resolution Allowing Them to Discuss Politics or Socialism Defeated—Increased Salaries for National Officers May Be Asked.

Trenton, N. J., May 8.—(Special)—The convention of Operative Potters yesterday went on record against locals discussing socialism or other political questions at their meetings. The question was brought up in the convention and aroused spirited discussion. A resolution legalizing the discussions of political questions at such meetings was introduced and defeated by a large majority.

All the national officers feel that the locals, when they meet, should meet for business only. Aside from this discussion the report of the committee on law took up much of the attention of the convention.

A movement is on foot which if successful will change the entire construction of the board of national officers and increase the salaries of the president, first vice president and secretary. It is proposed to do away with the board of trustees, and in addition to the present national officers, choose five additional vice presidents. Besides being members of the executive board, these men, with the second vice president as chairman, will do the work now done by the trustees. This is a western movement and many eastern delegates favor it. It is probable that a resolution favoring increased salaries will soon be introduced. President Hughes now gets $1,200 and Secretary T. J. Duffy and Vice President Hutchins $1,000 each. The increase is asked because of the additional work necessary on account of the greatly increased membership. The Brotherhood in the past year has increased its territory, and many new plants are receiving the attention of its officers.

The question of honorary membership to those leaving the trade was taken up, and met with approval, but a clause was inserted denying the privilege to those entering the saloon business.

A heated argument arose over a resolution to restrict representation in national convention to journeymen except where only apprentices are available. The resolution was defeated by a close vote.

Many locals have been troubled by persons who pay the initiation fee and then fail to join. A resolution was introduced calling for the forfeiture of all the initiation fees if the applicant does not present himself for initiation within 30 days.

At the afternoon session P. J. McMahon, president of the International Union of Stationary Engineers, briefly addressed the convention, asking the Brotherhood to assist the engineers in their movement for organization.

The western members presented a resolution fixing nine hours for all potters employed on piece work. Most of the delegates thought the men were not well enough paid to warrant reducing hours unless given an increase. The resolution was defeated.

The Brotherhood has an agreement with the manufacturers to advance two-year kilnmen apprentices to journeymen, when apprentices cannot be secured. A resolution was passed declaring the contract void, and that apprentices must serve three years. It is said the resolution was the result of manufacturers taking advantage of the old rule.

A resolution was passed prohibiting batters-out from doing the work of finishers, except where finishers cannot be had.

A most important resolution was presented calling for a uniform price list for sanitary ware pressers. It was prepared by the Sanitary Pressers' local No. 45, of Trenton. Vice President Hutchins, a sanitary presser, has given the matter much attention. The list now in force in Trenton has been in effect since 1895. Since then many new specialties have been introduced for which no uniform price is paid.

The election of officers will take place the latter part of the week. The head officials will be re-elected. The convention adjourned at noon today, and the delegates spent the afternoon visiting Princeton university.

At the Central Labor union meeting last evening, the visiting delegates were entertained and speeches were made by President Coleman, of kilnmen's local No. 9, of East Liverpool; John Gould, of East Palestine, second vice president, and others. Leroy Orr won much applause by two recitations. Miss Stevens also gave two excellent recitations.

THE POSTAL FORCE ARE ALL REJOICING

With the assistance of Congressman Tayler, Postmaster Surles has succeeded in securing another raise in salary for the entire clerical force of the postoffice, and also an additional clerk. Two substitutes and one regular carrier have been granted, and have already entered upon their duties.

The postmaster naturally feels highly elated over so much good news after the worry and strain of the past few months, and the rapidly increasing business. He is deeply grateful to Hon. R. W. Tayler for the great interest he has taken and help rendered the postoffice. The entire force is happy this morning, and all feel thankful to both Mr. Tayler and Postmaster Surles. The following letter from the department at Washington gives full explanation of the increase granted:

May 1, 1902.

Postmaster, East Liverpool, Ohio, Sir: In compliance with your recommendation of March 3, 1902, the following changes in your roster of clerks are approved to take effect July 1, 1902: T. B. Mackey, assistant mailing clerk, advanced from $700 to $800.

Lillian J. McBane, stamp clerk, from $600 to $700.

Helena J. Coventry, stamper to general delivery clerk, from $500 to $600.

John E. McClure, mailing clerk to chief mailing clerk, from $900 to $1,000.

Catherine A. Plunkett, stamper, from $400 to $500.

You are also authorized to employ one additional clerk under the designation of stamper at a salary of $500, to take effect July 1, 1902.

Salaries of assistant postmasters being paid from a separate appropriation, your recommendation that the salary of your assistant be increased will be considered, and you will be further advised in regard to the same.

R. J. WYNNE,

First Assistant Postmaster General.

The assistant postmaster, Mrs. Ada Rinehart, is now receiving $1,000 and Mr. Surles hopes to also secure another substantial increase for her. Miss Alice A. Starr, the successful applicant in the late civil service examination for the position of substitute clerk, will be appointed to the regular force, and will enter upon her duties July 1, at a salary of $500. John W. Sellers, the new carrier, will now commence duty on the new route assigned. Orson B. Smith will be given the route of Mr. Jessop, who is still on the sick list, and William Carey will take the place of Carrier Suter, now in California for his health. Temporary sub carrier George Smith, who has been filling the last named route, will relieve Carrier P. F. McCloskey, who will take a much needed rest.

unable to work for several days on account of a severe attack of the grip. Yesterday he was quite ill.

Charles Surles, salesman for the D. E. McNicol pottery, who has been in the west for several weeks, has returned to the city. He reports a most successful trip.

Harry Laughlin, for several months employed as a clay carrier at Laughlin No. 2, has resigned his position. He has been succeeded by George Nelson.

William Johnson, a kilnman at the West End pottery, is very ill at his home on Jethro street. He has been unable to work for several days.

NOTABLE IMPROVEMENT

A. Trotter & Sons Have an Up-to-Date Place of Business.

One of the most notable improvements to the city in the building line has just been completed on the corner of East Market street and the Calcutta road. It is the new structure erected by A. Trotter & Son, which adjoins their old business block. Owing to the enormity of business found it necessary to enlarge the establishment and have done so in a magnificent manner. The new building is 50 feet in width, 70 feet in length, three stories high and gives an additional floor space of nearly 1,000 feet. A more enhancing structure of the kind could not be designed and the firm is being highly complimented for its showing of enterprise.

With the two buildings A. Trotter & Son will now be able to display one of the best and most complete lines of harness, carriages and buggies ever seen in the city and it is their wish that everyone avail themselves of the opportunity.

MINERS NOT DECIDED.

Mitchell So Stated When Scranton Convention Adjourned Yesterday. Meet Again Today.

Scranton, Pa., May 8.—The miners' representatives were in session yesterday, but nothing was done of which any definite knowledge would be given the public. The meeting, as far as the outside world knows, made absolutely no change in the situation.

When the meeting adjourned President Mitchell gave out the following meagre and indefinite response to a request for an account of what had been done:

POTTERY NEWS

This morning the first piece of ware was to have been made in the new clay shops of Laughlin No. 3. The new plant is about completed in detail, and before sufficient ware has been made to fill a biscuit kiln the uncompleted departments will have been finished, and the new addition will be then in full operation. There was an air of excitement about the new plant, for all the old workmen wanted to see how matters went. A number of visitors have been touring the new addition within the past few days, and these, intermingled with the carpenters and other mechanics, have presented a busy appearance. There have been some changes made in the old shops, as some of the workmen employed there since this addition was started have been transferred to the new plant. Notable among these has been the transfer of George Stevenson, who was foreman of the clay shops of No. 2, who has been transferred to a similar position at No. 3. He has been succeeded by Alonzo Bowman, who has for some time held an official position at the China works. Other changes are to be made, but these have not yet been announced by the management. Great things are expected of this new addition, as no expense has been spared to make it the most complete pottery in the city.

From one of the officers of the National Brotherhood convention which is now in session at Trenton, this paper this morning received word that it was not likely that the convention business would be completed this week, but that the sessions would extend into next week. The reports of the convention show that the delegates have many resolutions to present about which nothing has been said, and as has been stated in this column before, no less than 100 resolutions will be presented to the convention before it adjourns. This means a large amount of work to look after, and as it is the intention of each delegate to look after all the minor details, it is no wonder that the meeting is expected to continue more than a week.

The Buffalo Pottery company, recently incorporated and now erecting a nine-kiln pottery at Buffalo, N. Y., has awarded the contract for the complete equipment of the plant to a Trenton firm. W. J. Rea and W. Bowen, of Trenton, are to be the managers of the pottery and they are rushing its erection. The pottery will be one of the most modern in the east.

When asked if there were any new developments in the formation of a working arrangement between the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles and Laughlin plants, Colonel John N. Taylor stated that just at present there was nothing to give out. There is a persistent rumor that something important in this proposed merging will be accomplished before long.

With the exception of moulders and branchers, all the sewer pipe men at Toronto and Empire will be a two week again Monday. The branchers ask $2.50 a day, their stickers $2.05 and the moulders $2.25. They are still waiting for an answer from the manufacturers.

Col. John N. Taylor has returned from a short visit to Pittsburgh on business.

David Calhoun, bench boss on the glost end at Laughlin No. 1, has been unable to work for several days on account of a severe attack of the grip. Yesterday he was quite ill.

Charles Surles, salesman for the D. E. McNicol pottery, who has been in the west for several weeks, has returned to the city. He reports a most successful trip.

Harry Laughlin, for several months employed as a clay carrier at Laughlin No. 2, has resigned his position. He has been succeeded by George Nelson.

William Johnson, a kilnman at the West End pottery, is very ill at his home on Jethro street. He has been unable to work for several days.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at 4 p. m., from the home of his stepfather, W. T. Davis, Dr. Crawford officiating. A large number of his schoolmates will attend and furnish music and flowers.

Charles Powell, aged 50, died Wednesday evening. He has been employed as a kilnman for 30 years.

NOTABLE IMPROVEMENT

A. Trotter & Sons Have an Up-to-Date Place of Business.

One of the most notable improvements to the city in the building line has just been completed on the corner of East Market street and the Calcutta road. It is the new structure erected by A. Trotter & Son, which adjoins their old business block. Owing to the enormity of business found it necessary to enlarge the establishment and have done so in a magnificent manner. The new building is 50 feet in width, 70 feet in length, three stories high and gives an additional floor space of nearly 1,000 feet. A more enhancing structure of the kind could not be designed and the firm is being highly complimented for its showing of enterprise.

With the two buildings A. Trotter & Son will now be able to display one of the best and most complete lines of harness, carriages and buggies ever seen in the city and it is their wish that everyone avail themselves of the opportunity.

MINERS NOT DECIDED.

Mitchell So Stated When Scranton Convention Adjourned Yesterday. Meet Again Today.

Scranton, Pa., May 8.—The miners' representatives were in session yesterday, but nothing was done of which any definite knowledge would be given the public. The meeting, as far as the outside world knows, made absolutely no change in the situation.

When the meeting adjourned President Mitchell gave out the following meagre and indefinite response to a request for an account of what had been done:

"The committee is canvassing the situation very carefully. No decision has as yet been reached. The committee will meet again tomorrow at 9 o'clock a. m."

When asked if anything had been heard from the operators Mr. Mitchell said:

"I have heard nothing from the operators. No concessions have been granted and I know nothing of any movement to secure concessions."

The comparatively early adjournment of yesterday's meeting has led to a general belief here that the miners were waiting for something to turn up, despite the positive public statements of President Mitchell that he knows of no mediatory moves. The usual crop of sensational stories were afloat last night, among them one to the effect that the companies have a thousand men assembled at Buffalo ready to come on and man the pumps and hoisting engines, should the firemen and engineers go out with the miners in case of a strike, as State Secretary Mullahy, of the Stationary Firemen's association, has declared they would do.

BOAT STILL RUNNING

The Captain of the Ferry Boat Emily Has Not Yet Been Arrested.

Up to the present time Captain Brandon, of the new ferry boat Emily, has not been arrested by any of the Hancock county authorities for landing the boat at Congo, as was threatened by George D. Ingram, attorney for Watson Johnston, yesterday morning.

Regardless of a notice of an order of superseas, which was served on Captain Brandon instructing him to discontinue landing the boat on the Congo shore, the craft is still in operation and carrying passengers backward and forward between Congo and this city and according to a statement made yesterday by Captain C. J. Griffith, of Pittsburg, one of the owners of the boat, will continue to run until the case of Watson Johnston against Samuel B. Goucher comes up in the circuit court of Hancock county, which convenes the latter part of June.

Captain Griffith came to Wellsville yesterday afternoon in answer to a telephone call of Captain Brandon and in a conversation with a News Review representative said: "We will continue to run the Emily between Wellsville and Congo until the June term of Hancock county circuit court, but will not charge anyone to come from Congo to Wellsville, whether on foot or horseback. The only charge which we will make for the trip will be from Wellsville to Congo."

"As for the notice of an order of superseas I wish to say that none of the owners of the boat have received any such notice."

The services of Hon. William M. O. Dawson, secretary of the state of West Virginia, have been secured by the ferry boat company to fight the case when it is brought up to the United States supreme court.

COUNCIL MEETING

Decision Reached to Sewer Commerce Street and Kelly Avenue.

A special meeting of council was called last evening to take action on the sewerage of Commerce street and Kelly avenue and to let the contract for the paving of Kelly avenue. It was found that there is $7,236 in the sanitary sewer fund and after the expense of placing an additional piece of storm water sewer on Commerce street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth has been paid a large amount will still remain.

This work will have to be done before the paving of Commerce street can begin. The paving contract was awarded to Harrison Rinehart.

Council ordered the clerk to borrow $7,000 to defray the expense of the paving until the bonds for same are paid.

Contractor Rinehart requested council to investigate the condition of Clark avenue and have it put into shape so that teams can drive over the street. Mr. Rinehart is unable to haul brick from the brick yard for paving.

A committee of three councilmen were appointed to investigate the matter, with power to act.

TWO ARRESTS

Both the Victims Are Charged With Drunkenness.

Two men were arrested yesterday and escorted to the city lockup. One was in charge of Officers Houser and

Davis and one was brought in by Officers Thorn and Pittinger. The one whom the former officers had in charge was found drunk in the U. S. pottery and the latter was also drunk, but aside from this will also be charged with using profane language. He was found at the Carroll-Porter Boiler works in an intoxicated condition and trying to set fire to the plant. He claimed that the management of the works owed him a small amount of money, and that they would not pay him, whereupon he decided to put the company out of business.

Both parties will be given a hearing today before Mayor Fogo.

TRADES COUNCIL REORGANIZED

ELECTION OF OFFICERS HELD LAST NIGHT.

Much Interesting Business Preceded This Interesting Part of the Work.

But few of the more than 60 delegates whose credentials had been presented to trades council, were absent from the meeting last night.

A few of the delegates had neglected to bring along their credentials. This omission prevented them from taking active part in the proceedings but they were not denied admission.

A communication was received from the street railway employees of Jamestown, N. Y., which informed the council that the long drawn-out strike there had been settled.

Treasurer Reark made his report, showing the finances of the organization to be in excellent condition. He was followed by Fred Herbert, who made a report for the auditing committee. The committee had performed the work assigned to it, finding the books of the officers in good shape.

Five dollars was voted the Latimer memorial fund, and the secretary will forward the money to the officers of the Mine Workers' union at Wilkes-barre today.

The Alliance machinists asked for aid to continue their fight against the Morgan engineering works, and $10 was ordered sent.

The election of officers was next in order, and the outcome was as follows:

President—Criss McConnell.

Vice President—Henry Moore.

Recording and Corresponding Secretary—Robert Buchanan.

Financial Secretary—G. B. M. Beaty.

Treasurer—J. E. Anderson.

Inspector—William Cope.

Sergeant-at-arms—J. Jewell.

Trustees—D. M. McLane, John Reark, Richard Herbert.

President McLane installed the officers and the meeting adjourned.

DANGEROUS STUFF

New York Authorities Seize a Quantity of Alum Baking Powder.

The health authorities of New York have seized a quantity of so-called cheap baking powder, which it found in that city. Attention was attracted to it by the low price at which it was being sold in the department stores. Samples were taken to the chemist of the health department and the stuff was pronounced to be "an alum powder," which analysis showed to be composed chiefly of alum and pulverized rock.

The powder was declared to be dangerous to health, and several thousand pounds were carted to the offal dock and destroyed.

It is unsafe to experiment with these so-called "cheap" articles of food. They are sure to be made of alum, rock or other injurious matter. In baking powders, the high class, cream of tartar brands are the most economical, because they go farther in use and are healthful beyond question.

SCOTTISH REFORMATION

All in Readiness For the Great Historical Play This Evening.

The long talked of "Scottish Reformation" will be given for the first time tonight. The tide of enthusiasm has been growing higher and the success of the entertainment is assured.

The large class of 220 have been rehearsing nightly for ten nights and are well prepared to give a very fine rendition of this popular entertainment. Mrs. Monroe as a lecturer needs no introduction to an East Liverpool audience and without doubt her Scottish Reformation will be received with the same enthusiasm as attended her "Luther" of several years ago.

The entertainment will open with an overture by McGraw's orchestra at 8 o'clock sharp. The seats have been selling rapidly, but there are some good ones yet to be had.

DOUBLE TRACKING

Of the Street Railway One of the Problems to Come Before Council.

One matter of particular importance which is to come before the Chester council at the meeting this evening will be the double tracking of the Rock Springs street railway line.

The management of the company claim that they have a right to double track their road according to their franchise, and ask council that they thoroughly investigate the matter and give the company permission to go ahead with the work. Most of the councilmen seem favorably inclined to grant this request, and it will be investigated at the meeting this evening.

INSPIRING EULOGIES

so much what we read or how we read it, says Charles F. Richardson.

BOTH FOR ADULTS

AND CHILDREN

"The function of a library, it should be remembered, is not only to serve the children, but the adults of this age, for, while we have greatly intensified the educational effort in behalf of the children in recent years, there has been an equal effort for the advancement of the adults. Adult education has been carried on through reading circles, Chautauquan schools and special college and university work and in all this effort toward the education of adults the library has been a very potent factor. The helpful library is one that is more than a storehouse for books. It is one in which there is a directing influence, giving higher life and inspiration to those who frequent it for help. It can only do this by studying and formulating the best plans to direct and assist those who seek a broader culture."

"The library has always been a source of great educational help, but this is most strikingly true since 1876 when 100 librarians met in Philadelphia for the consideration of plans of work. This conference led to the enlargement and enrichment of the library's educating influence throughout the country. Since then it has become a co-operative institution for all that is highest and best in the development of character. It has become a source of richest culture through the influence of which many have been led to economize their time so as to be able to enjoy the help received from this storehouse of information. The universal outlook for education makes the library a positive force in social life."

PUBLIC APPRECIATES

GOOD LITERATURE

"Let it be hoped that early in the twentieth century the laboring classes will have shorter hours of work, more leisure for reading and an appreciation of good books equal to that of Charles Lamb, who asserted that there was more reason for saying grace before a new book than before a dinner. Under the beneficent influence of free text books and free libraries it should be possible to create in the rising generation a spirit like that of Macaulay, who declared that he would prefer to be a poor man in a garret with plenty of books rather than a king who did not love reading."

"With our free schools and libraries, the humblest child in this and every other city of our land can become a king with almost unlimited power over his own intellectual kingdom. He can be trained to look, to see, and to enjoy the richest palaces of thought known to history, literature and art."

"We are many times mistaken when we suppose that in an age of great prosperity like ours that the love of history, poetry, literature and art is dead. The love of what is best and purest in life has never been more sought after than at the present. It is to be hoped that this library, with its many voices speaking through these books and directed by our efficient librarian and her assistant and this board of directors may become a source of great literary influence in this community. May many be directed to seek the association of the great spirits of the past through which they may greatly enlarge their sphere of usefulness in solving the many social problems that may present themselves for solution in this progressive twentieth century."

M'LANE SKETCHES OLD LIBRARY HISTORY

FIRST ORGANIZED EFFORT FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Years of Diligent Effort Crowned With a Grand Measure of Success.

David M. McLane, in making the presentation of the old library to the new institution, spoke in part as follows:

"I have been asked by your committee on arrangements to prepare a short sketch of the history of the public library. It will be impossible for me to give more than the main points and thus at a glance we shall see the great work that has been accomplished."

"Some time prior to the year 1896 there arose a great interest among the labor organizations of the city for a place in which they might establish a home, as they determined it to be."

"It was some time in the spring of 1896 that the work became practical. Rev. Shivera had concluded a series of evangelical meetings, and the question arose, 'How can we hope to hold the great mass of people who have promised to live better lives if we do not provide a home for them?' This question seemed to be prevalent and the library question was raised."

"The Trades and Labor council,

after much discussion, took up the work and finally decided to appoint a committee to look into the matter. This committee decided that a public library would meet with the pleasure of the people."

"The following members were appointed on this committee: C. W. Brownfield, Thomas Osbourne, J. J. Weisand, A. S. Hughes, Thomas Mountford and William Rue."

THE CITY'S FIRST

LIBRARY BOARD.

"After several meetings it was decided to increase the membership of this committee to 20 in number, which number constituted the first library commission of our city. Regular meetings of this committee were held from time to time and in May of 1896, the members rented the room in the Thompson building which was occupied by the institution up until a few days ago."

"A general movement was then started in behalf of the new library among the business men, the ministers and the church people, resulting in many subscriptions."

"In June the board of directors was appointed and on June 19, 1896, the board met and organized. J. J. Weisand was made president; Charles Danberg, secretary, and E. Ing H. Crosser, treasurer; the other members being J. H. Brookes, Thomas Mountford, F. W. Fowler, John Brannon, J. N. Hanley, J. Miles and H. E. Porter. It was at this meeting that it was decided to sell membership tickets as a way of increasing the funds of the library."

"The first book ordered was the Model Library of Scribner, at a cost of $275. It was not until September 14, 1896, that the library was finally opened to the public. The salary of the librarian was fixed at $20 per month. It seemed a hard struggle to maintain the newly opened institution. Committees were at work soliciting funds, which were slow about coming in, so that the first two years were a mere existence."

"Various ways were tried to obtain funds. Membership tickets, good for one year, were sold at $1 each. Donations were solicited, and on March 23, 1897, a home talent play was given in the opera house which resulted in a very small amount being raised. On August 3 of the following year a picnic was held at Columbian park and the proceeds turned over to the library."

"The first report of the librarian is recorded on August 3, 1897. It shows the following: Number of readers, 177; number of books loaned, 285; number of reference books used, 6; new members, 7."

RAPID GROWTH

OF THE INSTITUTION.

"On September 7, Dr. G. P. Ikrit donated 21 numbers of Scribner's Magazine. Some valuable books were also donated by J. J. Purinton and Hon. R. W. Taylor. The first financial report recorded is on September 21, 1897, and shows that in the six months previous to that time funds were received to the amount of $427.90. The report of the librarian for this same period shows the following: Readers, 3,280; books loaned, 2,608."

"The board of directors had a good idea of their work for on January 25, 1898, at the suggestion of W. E. Wells, the trustees were instructed to confer with the city solicitor in regard to securing a levy for the purpose of supporting the library. Also to petition the legislature for a special act for the same purpose."

"At a regular meeting held February 9, 1898, another entertainment was undertaken, which resulted in a financial gain for the institution."

"At a meeting held on May 25 of the same year a communication was read from J. H. Brookes, informing the board of an existing law that gave the school board the power to levy three and five-tenths mills in cities of this class. It was at once decided that the board should incorporate and application was immediately made. After this was carried out the board was increased to 15 members, and a general revival started in the interest of the library. The school board made its levy and this came in the following year. It might be interesting to sum up the reports as we can more easily comprehend the work. The total number of books in the possession of the public library September 1, 1897, was 728."

"The report for 1898 follows: Readers, 2,238; visitors, 3,353; books loaned, 2,172; reference books used, 213; active members, 39; total number of books, 828; receipts for the year, $248.24; expenses, $222.98."

"The report for 1899 shows the following: Receipts for the year, $1,276.28; expenses, $1,191.11; readers, 2,369; visitors, 3,875; books loaned, 2,864; reference books used, 150; number of books shelved, 1,544."

"The report for 1900 and 1901 showed large increases in books and patronage and the report from Jan. 1 to May 1, 1902, showed 440 readers, 1,573 visitors and 4,027 books loaned. The library presented this afternoon con-

TRADES COUNCIL
REORGANIZED

ELECTION OF OFFICERS HELD LAST NIGHT.

Much Interesting Business Preceded This Interesting Part of the Work.

But few of the more than 60 delegates whose credentials had been presented to trades council, were absent from the meeting last night.

A few of the delegates had neglected to bring along their credentials. This omission prevented them from taking active part in the proceedings but they were not denied admission.

A communication was received from the street railway employees of Jamestown, N. Y., which informed the council that the long drawn-out strike there had been settled.

Treasurer Reark made his report, showing the finances of the organization to be in excellent condition. He was followed by Fred Herbert, who made a report for the auditing committee. The committee had performed the work assigned to it, finding the books of the officers in good shape.

Five dollars was voted the Latimer memorial fund, and the secretary will forward the money to the officers of the Mine Workers' union at Wilkes-barre today.

The Alliance machinists asked for aid to continue their fight against the Morgan engineering works, and $10 was ordered sent.

The election of officers was next in order, and the outcome was as follows:

President—Criss McConnell.
Vice President—Henry Moore.
Recording and Corresponding Secretary—Robert Buchanan.
Financial Secretary—G. B. M. Beaty.

Treasurer—J. E. Anderson.
Inspector—William Cope.

Sergeant-at-arms—J. Jewell.
Trustees—D. M. McLane, John Reark, Richard Herbert.

President McLane installed the officers and the meeting adjourned.

DANGEROUS STUFF

New York Authorities Seize a Quantity of Alum Baking Powder.

The health authorities of New York have seized a quantity of so-called cheap baking powder, which it found in that city. Attention was attracted to it by the low price at which it was being sold in the department stores. Samples were taken to the chemist of the health department and the stuff was pronounced to be "an alum powder," which analysis showed to be composed chiefly of alum and pulverized rock.

The powder was declared to be dangerous to health, and several thousand pounds were carted to the offal dock and destroyed.

It is unsafe to experiment with these so-called "cheap" articles of food. They are sure to be made of alum, rock or other injurious matter. In baking powders, the high class, cream of tartar brands are the most economical, because they go farther in use and are healthful beyond question.

SCOTTISH REFORMATION

All in Readiness For the Great Historical Play This Evening.

The long talked of "Scottish Reformation" will be given for the first time tonight. The tide of enthusiasm has been growing higher and the success of the entertainment is assured.

The large class of 220 have been rehearsing nightly for ten nights and are well prepared to give a very fine rendition of this popular entertainment. Mrs. Monroe as a lecturer needs no introduction to an East Liverpool audience and without doubt her Scottish Reformation will be received with the same enthusiasm as attended her "Luther" of several years ago.

The entertainment will open with an overture by McGraw's orchestra at 8 o'clock sharp. The seats have been selling rapidly, but there are some good ones yet to be had.

Sheriff Leonard, of Lisbon, was in the city yesterday serving subpoenas in the case of the William Brunt Pottery company against Frank Adams, auditor. This will be a test case in which practically all the potteries in the city are involved, and the outcome will be of vital importance.

DOUBLE TRACKING

Of the Street Railway One of the Problems to Come Before Council.

One matter of particular importance which is to come before the Chester council at the meeting this evening will be the double tracking of the Rock Springs street railway line.

The management of the company claim that they have a right to double track their road according to their franchise, and ask council that they thoroughly investigate the matter and give the company permission to go ahead with the work. Most of the councilmen seem favorably inclined to grant this request, and it will be investigated at the meeting this evening.

The situation at the tin mill between the men and the employers remains the same as yesterday and no settlement was reached.

Phoenix Club Ball.

The Phoenix club will give a dance this evening at Rock Springs to their friends. Nearly 150 invitations are out for the affair.

Cut His Hand Badly.

Charles Hanlin this morning was engaged in doubling a cold pack at the mill when he cut a deep gash in his right hand.

CHESTER NOTES.

Dr. Kramer and George McNeal, of New Cumberland, were in Chester yesterday on business.

Summer cars have been permanently placed on the East Liverpool and Rock Springs railway.

Miss Bessie Johnston and Miss Annie Curley, both of Congo, went to Pittsburg on the Queen City.

A dance and picnic will be given at Rock Springs park Wednesday, June 11, by the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, division No. 52.

Mrs. William Parsons, of Hammondsville, is visiting her husband, who is employed at the tin mill. The family will move to Chester as soon as a vacant house can be procured.

BOTH FOR ADULTS

"The function of a library, it should be remembered, is not only to serve the children, but the adults of this age, for, while we have greatly intensified the educational effort in behalf of the children in recent years, there has been an equal effort for the advancement of the adults. Adult education has been carried on through reading circles, Chautauquan schools and special college and university work and in all this effort toward the education of adults the library has been a very potent factor. The helpful library is one that is more than a storehouse for books. It is one in which there is a directing influence, giving higher life and inspiration to those who frequent it for help. It can only do this by studying and formulating the best plans to direct and assist those who seek a broader culture."

"The library has always been a source of great educational help, but this is most strikingly true since 1876 when 100 librarians met in Philadelphia for the consideration of plans of work. This conference led to the enlargement and enrichment of the library's educating influence throughout the country. Since then it has become a co-operative institution for all that is highest and best in the development of character. It has become a source of richest culture through the influence of which many have been led to economize their time so as to be able to enjoy the help received from this storehouse of information. The universal outlook for education makes the library a positive force in social life."

GOOD LITERATURE

"Let it be hoped that early in the twentieth century the laboring class will have shorter hours of work, more leisure for reading and an appreciation of good books equal to that of Charles Lamb, who asserted that there was more reason for saying grace before a new book than before a dinner. Under the beneficent influence of free text books and free libraries it should be possible to create in the rising generation a spirit like that of Macaulay, who declared that he would prefer to be a poor man in a garret with plenty of books rather than a king who did not love reading."

"With our free schools and libraries, the humblest child in this and every other city of our land can become a king with almost unlimited power over his own intellectual kingdom. He can be trained to look, to see, and to enjoy the richest palaces of thought known to history, literature and art."

M'LANE SKETCHES
OLD LIBRARY HISTORY

FIRST ORGANIZED EFFORT FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Years of Diligent Effort Crowned With a Grand Measure of Success.

David M. McLane, in making the presentation of the old library to the new institution, spoke in part as follows:

"I have been asked by your committee on arrangements to prepare a short sketch of the history of the public library. It will be impossible for me to give more than the main points and thus at a glance we shall see the great work that has been accomplished."

"Some time prior to the year 1896 there arose a great interest among the labor organizations of the city for a place in which they might establish a home, as they determined it to be."

"It was some time in the spring of 1896 that the work became practical. Rev. Shivera had concluded a series of evangelical meetings, and the question arose, 'How can we hope to hold the great mass of people who have promised to live better lives if we do not provide a home for them?' This question seemed to be prevalent and the library question was raised."

"The Trades and Labor council,

after much discussion, took up the work and finally decided to appoint a committee to look into the matter. This committee decided that a public library would meet with the pleasure of the people."

"The following members were appointed on this committee: C. W. Brownfield, Thomas Osbourne, J. J. Weisand, A. S. Hughes, Thomas Mountford and William Rue."

THE CITY'S FIRST

LIBRARY BOARD.

"After several meetings it was decided to increase the membership of this committee to 20 in number, which number constituted the first library commission of our city. Regular meetings of this committee were held from time to time and in May of 1896, the members rented the room in the Thompson building which was occupied by the institution up until a few days ago."

"A general movement was then started in behalf of the new library among the business men, the ministers and the church people, resulting in many subscriptions."

"In June the board of directors was appointed and on June 19, 1896, the board met and organized. J. J. Weisand was made president; Charles Danberg, secretary, and E. ing H. Crosser, treasurer; the other members being J. H. Brookes, Thomas Mountford, F. W. Fowler, John Brannon, J. N. Hanley, J. Miles and H. E. Porter. It was at this meeting that it was decided to sell membership tickets as a way of increasing the funds of the library."

"The first book ordered was the Model Library of Scribner, at a cost of $275. It was not until September 14, 1896, that the library was finally opened to the public. The salary of the librarian was fixed at $20 per month. It seemed a hard struggle to maintain the newly opened institution. Committees were at work soliciting funds, which were slow about coming in, so that the first two years were a mere existence."

"Various ways were tried to obtain funds. Membership tickets, good for one year, were sold at $1 each. Donations were solicited, and on March 23, 1897, a home talent play was given in the opera house which resulted in a very small amount being raised. On August 3 of the following year a picnic was held at Columbian park and the proceeds turned over to the library."

"The first report of the librarian is recorded on August 3, 1897. It shows the following: Number of readers, 177; number of books loaned, 255; number of reference books used, 6; new members, 7."

RAPID GROWTH

OF THE INSTITUTION.

"On September 7, Dr. G. P. Ikrit donated 21 numbers of Scribner's Magazine. Some valuable books were also donated by J. J. Purinton and Hon. R. W. Taylor. The first financial report recorded is on September 21, 1897, and shows that in the six months previous to that time funds were received to the amount of $427.90. The report of the librarian for this same period shows the following: Readers, 3,280; books loaned, 2,608."

"The board of directors had a good idea of their work for on January 25, 1898, at the suggestion of W. E. Wells, the trustees were instructed to confer with the city solicitor in regard to securing a levy for the purpose of supporting the library. Also to petition the legislature for a special act for the same purpose."

"At a regular meeting held February 9, 1898, another entertainment was undertaken, which resulted in a financial gain for the institution."

"At a meeting held on May 25 of the same year a communication was read from J. H. Brookes, informing the board of an existing law that gave the school board the power to levy three and five-tenths mills in cities of this class. It was at once decided that the board should incorporate and application was immediately made. After this was carried out the board was increased to 15 members, and a general revival started in the interest of the library. The school board made its levy and this came in the following year. It might be interesting to sum up the reports as we can more easily comprehend the work. The total number of books in the possession of the public library September 1, 1897, was 725."

"The report for 1898 follows: Readers, 2,238; visitors, 3,353; books loaned, 2,172; reference books used, 218; active members, 39; total number of books, 828; receipts for the year, $248.24; expenses, $222.98."

"The report for 1899 shows the following: Receipts for the year, $1,276.28; expenses, $1,191.11; readers, 2,369; visitors, 3,875; books loaned, 2,864; reference books used, 160; number of books shelved, 1,544."

The report for 1900 and 1901 showed large increases in books and patronage and the report from Jan. 1 to May 1, 1902, showed 440 readers, 1,573 visitors and 4,037 books loaned. The library presented this afternoon con-

New York, May 8.—At the seventy-seventh annual meeting of the American Tract society, held yesterday, President Roosevelt was elected an honorary vice president to fill the place made vacant by the death of President McKimley.

General O. O. Howard, president of the society, occupied the chair. The total number of volumes issued during the past 77 years is 22,511,394; of tracts, 448,351,292, and of periodicals, 261,188,668, making a grand total of 742,051,354 copies of publications printed.

Twenty-nine new publications have been issued at various foreign mission stations. The foreign cash appropriation for the past year is $5,000. The grand total of foreign cash appropriations since the foundation of the society is $742,212.43.

An address was made by the Rev. Courtenay H. Fenn, secretary of the North China Tract society. He spoke in the highest terms of the co-operation of the American Tract society in past years and made a spirited appeal for further help for China, which country, he said, was on the verge of a great awakening.

The Rev. S. G. Underwood, a Korean missionary, spoke about conditions in that field and asked the society for help to provide a literature for that country. Rev. Dr. John Kerr, formerly of San Francisco, who is the newly appointed secretary of publications, made a brief address.

An appropriate resolution was adopted commending in terms of warmest praise on the services rendered the society by Rev. Dr. William M. Hand, who leaves the post of secretary of publication, which he has filled for 54 years. Rev. J. Ross Stevenson and William C. Bittling were elected to fill vacancies in the board of managers caused by death.

M. P. HOME MISSION BOARD.

Annual Meeting at Pittsburgh—Woman's Board for Freedmen Met Yesterday.

Pittsburg, May 8.—The board of home missions of the Methodist Protestant church convened yesterday morning for its annual meeting. The members present were the Rev. William C. Miller, of Nebraska; the Rev. S. S. Fisher, of Ohio; the Rev. J. M. Sheridan, of Maryland; Harry Reeves, of Steubenville; William Wilson, of Illinois, and several visitors. The day was passed in reviewing the report of the executive committee for the year, making appropriations and in laying out new work. The business was purely routine and will be completed tonight.

The annual meeting of the Women's Board for Freedmen, in connection with the board of home missions in New York, was held yesterday in the rooms of the Freedmen's board in the McClintock block. The women were delighted at the report that the board raised over $65,000 last year for the work in the south. Letters and reports were received from several institutions and schools carried on by the women's board. It was resolved to push the work with energy. The secretary, Mrs. Flora D. Palmer, will address the presidency of Mannee, at Defiance, O., and the presidency of Zanesville, at Zanesville, O., and will go Friday to New York to arrange the exhibit of the Freedmen's board in the New York mission house, a part of the general exhibit of the board of home missions, in connection with its centennial celebration.

ALL WRONG

The Mistake is Made By Many East Liverpool Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine that relief is cure.

You must cure the kidneys. An East Liverpool resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. W. P. Cochran, of Mulberry street, East End, says: "At intervals for 30 years I had serious kidney and bladder trouble. The agony I went through can hardly be described. Many nights I rolled from one side to another trying to find an easy position for my back. I could not move without having sharp twinges of pain, and I was also troubled with urinary difficulty, the secretions being very irregular, and at times very distressing. I ran down so that I could hardly help myself. Doctors treated me. I took a power of stuff and I had given up all hope when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a never failing remedy. I got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy and after taking half of it I could see some improvement. I continued, and the treatment did me more good than anything I ever used."

Sold for 50 cents a box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WORK STOPPED

Strike of Tin Metal Workers Employed on Thompson Hobbs Building.

Just when the Thompson-Hobbs building on Fifth street will be completed is now a matter of conjecture, due to a strike of the men employed in placing the iron ceilings in the three stories. Last Thursday the workmen, four in number, received a telegram from the tin metal workers' association, of Pittsburgh, ordering them to go on a strike, stating that the scale presented by them to the contractors, asking for an advance from $3.50 to $4 per day, had not been accepted.

The men immediately dropped their tools and left for their homes in Pittsburgh. They are employed by the Iron City Metal Ceiling company and Architect A. W. Scott, who has charge of the erection of the building, states that he has heard nothing from either the men or the contractors. Mr. Scott states that were it possible he would start local men at the work, but as the unions will not allow it, he will be compelled to wait until the strike is settled.

Much inconvenience to other workmen about the building has been caused by the awkward state of affairs. The carpenters are being delayed in their work and also the plumbers. It is stated that if the strike is not settled within a few days all work will be temporarily stopped, much to the annoyance of all concerned.

COWARDLY WORK

An Unknown Man Trying to Hurt Cyclists By Scattering Broken Glass.

In the city there lives an individual with more downright cowardice and general lawlessness than can be expressed. The name of the infamous creature is not known, but within a few days he may be apprehended, as the entire police force has been instructed by Mayor Davidson to institute a careful search for him. It is also the wish of Mayor Davidson that law abiding citizens will join in the investigation.

The dastard in question is guilty of distributing broken glass along Fifth and Sixth streets. Why he does it no one knows, but it is supposed he has a grudge against a bicycle rider and is resorting to the above means to get even. If it were his intended victim alone who would suffer the consequences, the deed would not be considered so seriously; but when, as in this case, human lives and valuable property are endangered stringent measures are necessary for the protection of the public welfare.

A piece of glass when stepped upon by either a person or a horse may cause poisoning. Glass on a pneumatic tired vehicle is in a manner as disastrous. The mayor, in speaking of the matter, said: "It is a disreputable outrage. I will do everything within my power to catch the perpetrator, and if he is found I most certainly will give him the full extent of the law. People, horses, bicycles and rubber tired turn-outs must be protected, and if they are not, it won't be my fault."

New York, May 8.—At the seventy-seventh annual meeting of the American Tract society, held yesterday, President Roosevelt was elected an honorary vice president to fill the place made vacant by the death of President McKinley.

General O. O. Howard, president of the society, occupied the chair. The total number of volumes issued during the past 77 years is 22,511,394; of tracts, 448,351,292, and of periodicals, 261,188,668, making a grand total of 742,051,354 copies of publications printed.

Twenty-nine new publications have been issued at various foreign mission stations. The foreign cash appropriation for the past year is $5,000. The grand total of foreign cash appropriations since the foundation of the society is $742,212.43.

An address was made by the Rev. Courtenay H. Fenn, secretary of the North China Tract society. He spoke in the highest terms of the co-operation of the American Tract society in past years and made a spirited appeal for further help for China, which country, he said, was on the verge of a great awakening.

The Rev. S. G. Underwood, a Korean missionary, spoke about conditions in that field and asked the society for help to provide a literature for that country. Rev. Dr. John Kerr, formerly of San Francisco, who is the newly appointed secretary of publications, made a brief address.

An appropriate resolution was adopted commenting in terms of warmest praise on the services rendered the society by Rev. Dr. William M. Hand, who leaves the post of secretary of publication, which he has filled for 54 years. Rev. J. Ross Stevenson and William C. Bittling were elected to fill vacancies in the board of managers caused by death.

M. P. HOME MISSION BOARD.

Annual Meeting at Pittsburg—Woman's Board For Freedmen Met Yesterday.

Pittsburg, May 8.—The board of home missions of the Methodist Protestant church convened yesterday morning for its annual meeting. The members present were the Rev. William C. Miller, of Nebraska; the Rev. S. S. Fisher, of Ohio; the Rev. J. M. Sheridan, of Maryland; Harry Reeves, of Steubenville; William W. son, of Illinois, and several visitors. The day was passed in reviewing the report of the executive committee for the year, making appropriations and in laying out new work. The business was purely routine and will be completed tonight.

The annual meeting of the Women's Board for Freedmen, in connection with the board of home missions in New York, was held yesterday in the rooms of the Freedmen's board in the McClintock block. The women were delighted at the report that the board raised over $65,000 last year for the work in the south. Letters and reports were received from several institutions and schools carried on by the women's board. It was resolved to push the work with energy. The secretary, Mrs. Flora D. Palmer, will address the presbytery of Manmee, at Defiance, O., and the presbytery of Zanesville, at Zanesville, O., and will go Friday to New York to arrange the exhibit of the Freedmen's board in the New York mission house, a part of the general exhibit of the board of home missions, in connection with its centennial celebration.

The Rev. Dr. Edward P. Cowan, secretary of the board in Pittsburg, will speak in New York at the centennial, as well as the Rev. Dr. H. T. McClelland, president of the board of Freedmen.

ALL WRONG

The Mistake is Made By Many East Liverpool Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine that relief is cure.

You must cure the kidneys.

An East Liverpool resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. W. P. Cochran, of Mulberry street, East End, says: "At intervals for 30 years I had serious kidney and bladder trouble. The agony I went through can hardly be described. Many nights I rolled from one side to another trying to find an easy position for my back. I could not move without having sharp twinges of pain, and I was also troubled with urinary difficulty, the secretions being very irregular, and at times very distressing. I ran down so that I could hardly help myself. Doctors treated me. I took a power of stuff and I had given up all hope when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a never failing remedy. I got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy and after taking half of it I could see some improvement. I continued, and the treatment did me more good than anything I ever used."

Sold for 50 cents a box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, States.

WORK STOPPED

Strike of Tin Metal Workers Employed on Thompson Hobbs Building.

Just when the Thompson-Hobbs building on Fifth street will be completed is now a matter of conjecture, due to a strike of the men employed in placing the iron ceilings in the three stories. Last Thursday the workmen, four in number, received a telegram from the tin metal workers' association, of Pittsburg, ordering them to go on a strike, stating that the scale presented by them to the contractors, asked for an advance from $3.50 to $4 per day, had not been accepted.

The men immediately dropped their tools and left for their homes in Pittsburg. They are employed by the Iron City Metal Ceiling company and Architect A. W. Scott, who has charge of the erection of the building, states that he has heard nothing from either the men or the contractors. Mr. Scott states that were it possible he would start local men at the work, but as the unions will not allow it, he will be compelled to wait until the strike is settled.

Much inconvenience to other workmen about the building has been caused by the awkward state of affairs. The carpenters are being delayed in their work and also the plumbers. It is stated that if the strike is not settled within a few days all work will be temporarily stopped, much to the annoyance of all concerned.

SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION

Held By Columbiana County Sunday Schools at East Palestine.

The annual Columbiana county Sunday school convention, which had been in session at the M. E. church at East Palestine since Monday, was brought to a close Tuesday evening, and the delegates returned to their homes. This convention was successful and profitable in every way.

The program, previously published, was carried out with but few exceptions, some of the members being absent and unable to respond to the subjects assigned to them. Rev. W. F. McCauley presided. The reports on the work in the county for the past year were very encouraging and showed the Sunday schools throughout the county to be in a healthy and prosperous condition.

At the election of officers Tuesday afternoon the following were chosen to serve for the coming year: W. F. McCauley, of Salem, president; W. M. Glasgow, of Wellsville, vice president; A. W. Weisgerber, of Salem, secretary and treasurer; Rev. Mr. Miller, of East Palestine, superintendent of normal work; Mrs. Jennie McMillan, of Lisbon, superintendent of junior work; Mrs. H. L. Mitchell, of Salem, superintendent of home department.

It was decided that the next annual convention should be held in Wellsville in a year.

KIDNEY DISEASE AVERTED.

Some Rules for People of Sedentary Habits.

How to Detect This Approaching Trouble and Nip It in the Bud.

Sedentary habits cause kidney troubles. People who are obliged to sit all day long, stenographers, telephone and telegraph operators, seamstresses, milliners, shoe makers, tailors, book keepers, clerks who stand over a counter, engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, and others on steam and electric railroads, are all more or less affected with disease in the kidneys. Long hours in a sitting posture cramps the kidneys, bowels and other organs in the pelvic regions. You will find that nearly everyone of these people has constipation, and a great many more of them have kidney troubles and don't know it. Often incipient Bright's disease will fasten itself upon a person and the only indication of anything wrong that the layman can discern is a slight aching or tired feeling across the small of the back. This goes unheeded because it is itself apparently of no great consequence. Let the knowing physician examine the water, when these symptoms are manifest, and he'll find a clouded, discolored, albuminous fluid that tells as plainly as a picture that inside of these delicate and important organs there exists a condition of disease such as to need quick and powerful treatment in order to preserve them from decay and save the life of the owner. Always be on your guard for the slightest pain or soreness across the back. Don't let it go unheeded for at that very instant your kidneys may be in an awful condition. When healthy they perform an important function, that of filtering and purifying the liquids that pass into your system. They do it so carefully too that not the most infinitesimal speck of foreign or disease-breeding matter can get into the vitals of the body. While they are healthy, they do more toward keeping you well than any other organ of the whole anatomy. When they are impoverished and weak, unable to stand as the barrier against disease, it's like throwing down the protecting walls and picket lines of a great city and letting the enemy, uninterrupted, walk in. Think of these precious organs becoming enfeebled through want of nourishment. Think of them instead of being plump, vigorous, healthy, of being thin, lifeless, almost bloodless, eaten full of holes and secretion, a pus that would make you hold your nose, could you see it. Think of them in their struggling attempt to obey nature, pouring this filthy and disgusting mass into your lungs, heart and everywhere over the body, on account of their inability to eject it through the proper channels and out of the system.

Does this appear to you as being healthful? Yet you, though not suspecting it, may be in this very position. If you have a running sore on your arm, you would bathe it carefully with warm water to cleanse it, then tenderly cover it with some healing lotion. This much to protect it from the poisons in the air, and to assist your internal medicines to act more thoroughly. Your kidneys need washing as much as your arm. You need to flush out that pus and secretion and assist nature to restore healthy action. You need something known to go direct to your kidneys through the blood and that has a healthy effect. "Blood Wine" will do this and so marked is its action on the kidneys that you can actually feel it working on them within a few minutes after taking a dose.

It gives them just the kind of bath they need and it heals up the sore. It takes away the smarting, burning, painful, dragged-down, all-gone sensations, as if by magic. It takes sediments of all kinds out of the little nooks and corners where they lodge and cause brick dust, gravel, stone in bladder, inflammation, etc. If you have any of these troubles, or even if you have any of the slightest symptoms of kidney disease, you ought to protect yourself. It is easier to prevent than to cure any disease. A bottle of "Blood Wine," costing fifty cents, will often save off a serious trouble, and spare the patient's life, to say nothing of saving great expense and long suffering.

Read this expression of gratitude from a Worcester, Mass., woman, who has had an excellent chance to make a careful investigation of "Blood Wine." Mrs. Ann P. Stocking says:

MRS. ANN P. STOCKING.

"I live right here in the city where 'Blood Wine' is made. I have seen with my own eyes the cures it has effected all about me, and I have been cured myself of a very stubborn case of kidney disease. I suffered for several years, had all the symptoms that ever accompanied such a trouble, and tried about every remedy recommended. 'Blood Wine' was the last. I took it only after being convinced that it was a truly wondrous medicine, and it cured me. I went to the Louis Daudelin Co. and volunteered this statement, because I knew them to be honest, upright people and deserving of success. 'Blood Wine' will cure any form of kidney disease and do it quickly and thoroughly. Anyone so affected should try this great medicine just as soon as they can get their hands on a bottle."

Go to your druggist and look into it carefully; read the literature and ascertain for yourself just what it will do. It contains no wine or opiates.

"Blood Wine" costs fifty cents a bottle, but you can sample it free of charge at Will Reed's and Hodson's drug stores.

MAY POSTPONE ADJOURNMENT

Legislative Session Possibly to Be Prolonged Another Week.

ARCHER IS A CANDIDATE

For a Third Term as Senator—There Are Others Who Want the Honor—Congress Asked to Pension Ex-Prisoners—Legislative Notes.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, May 8.—Hon. Frank B. Archer, of Bellaire, president of the senate, will be a candidate for a third term. While he has not yet made any formal declaration of his candidacy, it is understood from trustworthy sources that he will make an effort to succeed himself. He will have opposition. Representative M. N. Duvaul, of Steubenville, Jefferson county, has announced himself as a candidate, and it is stated that Mr. McGovern, of Cadiz, who is a member of the state medical board of registration and examination, will also seek the honor. The word has been passed around among the members of the senate that Archer will be a candidate to succeed himself.

The general assembly may be forced into rescinding its resolution to adjourn on Monday, May 12. A bare possibility exists that the session may be prolonged for another week. Mr. Moore, the "sage" of Athens, is causing more trouble. The senate passed the first of the general appropriation bills, but not until it had been subjected to much mutilation at the hands of the aforesaid gentleman, who is chairman of the finance committee. The house finance committee spent many wearisome hours on the bill, giving it earnest and most careful consideration.

Moore has a variety of axes to grind and when the bill reached his hands he got busy. The house has declined to do his bidding and he took advantage of the opportunity to get even. He undid much of the work of the house committee and also added much to it. He chopped off appropriations aggregating almost $82,000 and added some $208,000, making a net increase considerably over $100,000. The senate passed the bill and sent it to the house for concurrence. Wednesday afternoon that body very properly and very decisively refused to concur in the amendments. Conference committees will be appointed by both bodies to adjust the matter if possible. If they cannot do that at once, it will be necessary to repeal the adjournment resolution and extend the session one week.

The house adopted the Arthur bill memorializing congress to pass the bill pending before that body to pension all union ex-prisoners of war. The G. A. R. organizations of the state are behind the bill. The senate passed the York bill appropriating $15,000 for extermination of the San Jose scale and other insects and contagious diseases affecting trees. The Willis bill prohibiting the unauthorized use of the union label was made a law by the senate. It was backed by the labor organizations of the state. The Metzger and Pollock bond bills for the city of Canton were made laws by the senate. One provides for the payment of school indebtedness and the other for a new market house.

The Ohio League of Municipalities is sending out telegrams to the mayors of cities urging them to send representatives to Columbus to aid in a movement to secure the defeat of the Jones bill, just made a law, which relieves railroads from maintaining arc lights on bridges and at grade crossings. It is claimed that if the bill remains a law, municipalities of the state will have to tax themselves $1,000,000 to pay for the lights which have been kept by the railroads. The contention of the railroads was that the lights were conducive to accidents in that they blinded engineers.

The life pension certificate of Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley has been received at the Columbus agency. It is dated in April and calls for $5,000 annually, payable in quarterly installments, the first being due on June 4. This is the second president's widow's pension drawn through the local agency, Mrs. Garfield's being the other.

Dr. A. C. Yingling, Truant Officer David Groner, James Robbins, Will Horn and Henry Older, of Salem, came to Columbus Wednesday from Lancaster, where they attended the G. A. R. encampment. They left today for home.

A tramp stole a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. When he appeared in court he explained that he saw in the advertisement that it was "easy to take," so he took it. "Discharged," said the judge. "I will go and take some myself." It is easy to take and it is a perfect laxative. Sold by W. & W. pharmacy.

KIDNEY DISEASE AVERTED.

Some Rules for People of Sedentary Habits.

How to Detect This Approaching Trouble and Nip It in the Bud.

Sedentary habits cause kidney troubles. People who are obliged to sit all day long, stenographers, telephone and telegraph operators, seamstresses, milliners, shoe makers, tailors, book keepers, clerks who stand over a counter, engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, and others on steam and electric railroads, are all more or less affected with disease in the kidneys. Long hours in a sitting posture cramps the kidneys, bowels and other organs in the pelvic regions. You will find that nearly everyone of these people has constipation, and a great many more of them have kidney troubles and don't know it. Often incipient Bright's disease will fasten itself upon a person and the only indication of anything wrong that the layman can discern is a slight aching or tired feeling across the small of the back. This goes unheeded because it in itself is apparently of no great consequence. Let the knowing physician examine the water, when these symptoms are manifest, and he'll find a clouded, discolored, albuminous fluid that tells as plainly as a picture that inside of these delicate and important organs there exists a condition of disease such as to need quick and powerful treatment in order to preserve them from decay and save the life of the owner. Always be on your guard for the slightest pain or soreness across the back. Don't let it go unheeded for at that very instant your kidneys may be in an awful condition. When healthy they perform an important function, that of filtering and purifying the liquids that pass into your system. They do it so carefully too that not the most infinitesimal speck of foreign or disease-breeding matter can get into the vitals of the body. While they are healthy, they do more toward keeping you well than any other organ of the whole anatomy. When they are impoverished and weak, unable to stand as the barrier against disease, it's like throwing down the protecting walls and picket lines of a great city and letting the enemy, uninterrupted, walk in. Think of these precious organs becoming enfeebled through want of nourishment. Think of them instead of being plump, vigorous, healthy, of being thin, lifeless, almost bloodless, eaten full of holes and secretion, a pus that would make you hold your nose, could you see it. Think of them in their struggling attempt to obey nature, pouring this filthy and disgusting mass into your lungs, heart and everywhere over the body, on account of their inability to eject it through the proper channels and out of the system.

Does this appear to you as being healthy? Yet you, though not suspecting it, may be in this very position. If you have a running sore on your arm, you would bathe it carefully with warm water to cleanse it, then tenderly cover it with some healing lotion. This much to protect it from the poisons in the air, and to assist your internal medicines to act more thoroughly. Your kidneys need washing as much as your arm. You need to flush out that pus and secretion and assist nature to restore healthy action. You need something known to go direct to your kidneys through the blood and that has a healthy effect. "Blood Wine" will do this and so marked is its action on the kidneys that you can actually feel it working on them within a few minutes after taking a dose.

It gives them just the kind of bath they need and it heals up the sore. It takes away the smarting, burning, painful, dragged-down, all-gone sensations, as if by magic. It takes sediments of all kinds out of the little nooks and corners where they lodge and cause brick dust, gravel, stone in bladder, inflammation, etc. If you have any of these troubles, or even if you have any of the slightest symptoms of kidney disease, you ought to protect yourself. It is easier to prevent than to cure any disease. A bottle of "Blood Wine," costing fifty cents, will often save off a serious trouble, and spare the patient's life, to say nothing of saving great expense and long suffering.

Read this expression of gratitude from a Worcester, Mass., woman, who has had an excellent chance to make a careful investigation of "Blood Wine." Mrs. Ann P. Stocking says:

Mrs. ANN P. STOCKING.

"I live right here in the city where 'Blood Wine' is made. I have seen with my own eyes the cures it has effected all about me, and I have been cured myself of a very stubborn case of kidney disease. I suffered for several years, had all the symptoms that ever accompanied such a trouble, and tried about every remedy recommended. 'Blood Wine' was the last. I took it only after being convinced that it was a truly wondrous medicine, and it cured me. I went to the Louis Daudelin Co. and volunteered this statement, because I knew them to be honest, upright people and deserving of success. 'Blood Wine' will cure any form of kidney disease and do it quickly and thoroughly. Anyone so affected should try this great medicine just as soon as they can get their hands on a bottle."

Go to your druggist and look into it carefully; read the literature and ascertain for yourself just what it will do. It contains no wine or opiates.

"Blood Wine" costs fifty cents a bottle, but you can sample it free of charge at Will Reed's and Hodson's drug stores.

MAY POSTPONE ADJOURNMENT

Legislative Session Possibly to Be Prolonged Another Week.

ARCHER IS A CANDIDATE

For a Third Term as Senator—There Are Others Who Want the Honor—Congress Asked to Pension Ex-Prisoners—Legislative Notes.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, May 8.—Hon. Frank B. Archer, of Bellaire, president of the senate, will be a candidate for a third term. While he has not yet made any formal declaration of his candidacy, it is understood from trustworthy sources that he will make an effort to succeed himself. He will have opposition. Representative M. N. Duvaul, of Steubenville, Jefferson county, has announced himself as a candidate, and it is stated that Mr. McGavran, of Cadiz, who is a member of the state medical board of registration and examination, will also seek the honor. The word has been passed around among the members of the senate that Archer will be a candidate to succeed himself.

The general assembly may be forced into rescinding its resolution to adjourn on Monday, May 12. A bare possibility exists that the session may be prolonged for another week. Mr. Moore, the "sage" of Athens, is causing more trouble. The senate passed the first of the general appropriation bills, but not until it had been subjected to much mutilation at the hands of the aforesaid gentleman, who is chairman of the finance committee. The house finance committee spent many wearisome hours on the bill, giving it earnest and most careful consideration.

Moore has a variety of axes to grind and when the bill reached his hands he got busy. The house has declined to do his bidding and he took advantage of the opportunity to get even. He undid much of the work of the house committee and also added much to it. He chopped off appropriations aggregating almost $82,000 and added some $208,000, making a net increase considerably over $100,000. The senate passed the bill and sent it to the house for concurrence. Wednesday afternoon that body very properly and very decisively refused to concur in the amendments. Conference committees will be appointed by both bodies to adjust the matter if possible. If they cannot do that at once, it will be necessary to repeal the adjournment resolution and extend the session one week.

The house adopted the Arthur bill memorializing congress to pass the bill pending before that body to pension all union ex-prisoners of war. The G. A. R. organizations of the state are behind the bill. The senate passed the York bill appropriating $15,000 for extermination of the San Jose scale and other insects and contagious diseases affecting trees. The Willis bill prohibiting the unauthorized use of the union label was made a law by the senate. It was backed by the labor organizations of the state. The Metzger and Pollock bond bills for the city of Canton were made laws by the senate. One provides for the payment of school indebtedness and the other for a new market house.

The Ohio League of Municipalities is sending out telegrams to the mayors of cities urging them to send representatives to Columbus to aid in a movement to secure the defeat of the Jones bill, just made a law, which relieves railroads from maintaining arc lights on bridges and at grade crossings. It is claimed that if the bill remains a law, municipalities of the state will have to tax themselves $1,000,000 to pay for the lights which have been kept by the railroads. The contention of the railroads was that the lights were conducive to accidents in that they blinded engineers.

The life pension certificate of Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley has been received at the Columbus agency. It is dated in April and calls for $5,000 annually, payable in quarterly installments, the first being due on June 4. This is the second president's widow's pension drawn through the local agency, Mrs. Garfield's being the other.

THE ACCEPTANCE OF THE TWO GIFTS

JOHN J. PURINTON'S SPEECH IN BEHALF OF BOARD.

Need of a Liberal Spirit in Looking After Educational Institutions.

John J. Purinton said:

"It gives me the greatest of pleasure to accept, on behalf of the Carnegie Library board, from your hands the books and effects of the East Liverpool Public Library, representing as it does the years of patient toil and effort upon the part of the laboring class of our city to provide themselves and their fellow workmen and women the means of self-education, knowledge and culture."

"I am sure the public will never forget those zealous, persistent workingmen who, after having earned the bread for themselves and families, devoted the remaining hours of the day in stirring up the latent embers of interest in a public library, gathering them together and by careful and persistent effort formed them into so cheerful a glow that their light and heat has constantly increased, and today they are able to lay at our feet a free will offering of over 2,500 volumes of choice literature."

"Nothing that labor can do will or can give it so high a standing and respect in the eyes of the world at large as the honest effort on its part to elevate its own mental and moral conditions through the broadening and uplifting influence of choice literature. The donor of this beautiful structure appreciates this fact, and like you, is making an honest effort to elevate the mental condition of the masses; for he sees, as you have seen, the material condition of the working man can only be permanently improved by his first becoming an intelligent working man—one who can maintain and insist upon his rights by force of reason and not by force of numbers."

FULL FRUITION

IN FUTURE YEARS.

"These corner stones of libraries Andrew Carnegie is laying over this fair land of ours will see fullest fruition in the condition of the working people of the future generations; and through them and from them the future rulers of finance, industry and government."

"In accepting this gift to the people from your hands without condition or reservation, I recognize, and the Carnegie Library board will honor the trust, and hold it all the more sacred—as the donor of this building would also admonish us to do—for its freedom from conditions, and endeavor to so administer and plan that no regret of your action today shall ever arise. "We would ask you to take back to your warm-hearted associates and to our working men and women in general the word that they cannot honor your gift nor the gift of Andrew Carnegie higher than by patronizing and enjoying to the fullest extent of their ability these splendid rooms and books."

"The building was erected and the books bought to be use—not looked at and admired."

"The fact that the furnishings are of the best, with all the conveniences to be had is not to be construed in any other way than that nothing is too good for the man, woman or child desiring knowledge, no matter how humble his calling or walk in life. Fill these rooms and empty the racks, is the desire of the givers."

THIS CITY INDEED

MOST FORTUNATE

After further words of gratitude to the East Liverpool library association, the speaker proceeded to say that fortunate indeed is the city that has such a gift bestowed upon it. Capital is represented in this magnificent building and its equipment and labor in the gift of these volumes, the total of years of effort of a noble and generous band of workmen, with the breadth of character and wisdom to join hands with capital and stand united in an effort to better mankind. Could the spectacle here today be repeated in every city and village, what a revolution for good would be effected."

If we add to the public school—the bulwark of our liberties—the influence of free libraries we broaden our national greatness. The public schools have always been conducted on a policy of liberality and the taxpayers have borne the burden cheerfully. A similar policy is asked of those entrusted with the duty of providing funds for this foster brother of the public schools.

Over 95 per cent of our children never finish the full public school courses. Now that we can pass them from the doors of the school to the door of the library, I ask that you furnish the means to keep those doors open wide and to fill up the vacant shelves.

The donor's generosity in making a condition that the city give $3,000 a year—whereas in all other $50,000 libraries he has fixed the sum for maintenance at $5,000 a year—should not be construed to mean that the $3,000 is the maximum, but rather the minimum, to be increased from year to year, as the growing needs and welfare of the institution demand.

PRESENTATION OF

LIBRARY TO THE CITY

If retrenchment in your finances must of necessity be at times let them be in times that will not curtail the mental and moral sources of growth. Keep your schools and libraries in full and efficient working order and through them in their effects your object will be attained.

The board appointed by the council of our city to expend the $50,000 given by Andrew Carnegie for the purpose of erecting and furnishing a library have completed their labors and today stand ready to deliver the building complete, as we believe in every respect, the plans of the same having been first approved by Mr. Carnegie himself, and there has been no deviation from them.

The ground furnished by the city at a cost of $20,000 has been laid out and improved in a manner as we thought suitable and best, and we trust will meet the approval of all.

The books within, numbering nearly 6,000 volumes, represent an outlay of fully $6,000, and makes a total investment of $76,000. That it is my pleasure, Mr. Mayor, to deliver to you for the use and benefit of our citizens. In presenting this library I do so with the admonition that its administration be ever kept free from factional strife. Let its directors be men noted for their purity and breadth of character, and exact the strictest accounting from them."

THE MAYOR'S SPEECH

Expressing Deep Appreciation of the Substantial Gift.

Mayor W. C. Davidson, who made the concluding address in behalf of the city, expressed appreciation of the substantial gift and eulogized in fitting terms those who were instrumental in bringing about the institution.

The mayor told how the library could become more appreciated as it becomes older and expressed a wish that it should always be a source of usefulness whereby its patrons could profit. While marked by brevity, the mayor's address was forceful, logical and was well received.

A VERY HANDSOME PUBLIC EDIFICE

THE CARNEGIE LIBRARY BUILDING DESCRIBED.

Those Whose Efforts Helped to Furnish the Beautiful Interior.

The Carnegie Library building is one of the most substantial and handsomest structures in the state. Aside from being fireproof it is almost as solid as a rock and of the very latest design. It is divided into 21 rooms, not including the vestibule and dome, all being arranged in a most convenient manner.

Architect A. W. Scott designed the building, which was erected in exact accordance with the plans and specifications furnished by him. While the matter has never before been made public, it is admitted by Mr. Scott that Mr. Kline, secretary of Andrew Carnegie, dictated to him the plans by which the structure was built.

Miss Gertrude Baker, who is in charge of the library, needs no commendation as to her competency to properly fill her position. For two years she was assistant librarian at Cleveland; also for two years assistant librarian at Los Angeles, Cal., and for two years chief librarian at Mt. Vernon, from which city she came to East Liverpool.

Aside from her many years of practical experience, Miss Baker is a graduate of the library training school at Los Angeles and also another at Albany, N. Y. Though only having been in this city a few months the young lady has gained great popularity.

Miss Mary Hall, the assistant librarian, is also well qualified and an earnest worker.

To the Milligan Hardware company is due the credit of beautifying the interior of the new library building. This firm had the contract for furnishing nearly everything for the inside, excepting the furniture, and the work done by the men in the company's employ, with the splendid material furnished them, stands as a marvel of beauty.

From the lavatories in the basement to the chandeliers in the ceiling of the rooms in the upper floor the Milligan company supplied the plumbing, electrical work, iron work, including the handsome stairs, tile and marble work, which cannot be excelled in fineness of design and finish, sanitary work, wiring, steel lath, turnstiles, tin and copper work.

The chandeliers, of which there are several dozens, are of a combination and special design, fitted for both gas and electricity. A large chandelier in the upper ceiling overlooking the rotunda is of striking beauty. It is fitted with 12 electric lights, between each of which is a candle. Each desk in the four reading rooms is fitted with a double-light chandelier of special design. The floor of the lobby is laid with ceramic mosaic tiling, the design which is placed immediately in front of the main entrance being of rare beauty and commanding the rooms the floors are made of cement tile. The wainscoting is of Italian marble with Tennessee base and is imposing in appearance.

In the basement are two large lavatories, which were fitted up by the Milligan company, together with wash stands and other accessories. The cement and terra cotta work were also furnished by the same firm. The hardware, which is of solid bronze, adds much to the other artistic work. In fact the entire interior is so handsomely fitted up that words are incapable of conveying even a vague idea of what it really looks like. It must be seen to be appreciated. The statue on the top of the dome was put up by the Milligan company.

The decorations in the lobby, which are placed on the frescoed walls, were done by George Myers, of Steubenville, who was hired by the Milligan company to do the work. It is gorgeously beautiful and very attractive.

It was long ago decided by the board of directors of the Carnegie library that the furniture was to be in keeping with the other elegant furnishings in the interior and this important detail was left for Lewis Bros. to look after.

How well this celebrated firm took care of the work entrusted to them is attested by an inspection of the library building. In the different rooms were placed 28 tables and 14 dozen chairs. These are made of quarter sawed golden oak and aside from the splendid and rich appearance of the different pieces all are calculated to wear almost as iron. In the large reading room to the right of the lobby are nine large tables and necessary chairs. Three of the tables were especially designed for boys and girls, being made lower so as to better accommodate the little ones. The chairs are fitted with box seats and rubber tips. The tips can be removed when worn and render the moving of chairs noiseless.

It is safe to say that no public building in the country is better equipped in the line of furniture than the Carnegie library and to Lewis Bros. is due the entire credit. No one can enter the building without being at once impressed with the grand display of art and beauty of which the furniture is foremost.

An event which has for a year past been looked forward to by every citizen of East Liverpool was carried out this afternoon, when the dedication of the Carnegie library took place. The exercises, which were of a high order, were held in the upstairs reading room at the right of the rotunda and were listened to by a large congregation of interested and enthusiastic people.

Music which was furnished by the Liederkranz Singing society was appropriate and highly pleasing. It was about 3 o'clock when President George Peach, of the library board, called for order, after which an impressive prayer was made by Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart. The program as carried out follows:

Music—Liederkranz.
Address—W. E. Wells.
Address—Prof. R. E. Rayman.
Music—Liederkranz.
Presentation of public library to Carnegie library—D. M. McLane.
Acceptance and presentation of Carnegie library to city—John J. Purinton.

The reception to the public will take place this evening from 7 to 11. Nowling's orchestra will furnish the music.

HOW THE DONATION

WAS OBTAINED

On an afternoon in the month of May, 1899, the initial steps leading up to the building of the East Liverpool Carnegie library were taken. It was in the office of Herbert & Travis that the matter was first talked over, M. E. Miskall being the gentleman to first offer a suggestion to address a letter to Mr. Carnegie, who was then Scotland.

No action of an official nature had ever been yet thought of at the time Mers, Miskall, Herbert and Travis reached the decision to communicate with Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Travis wrote the letter at the time the library proposition was first talked over, and on July 15 a reply was received from James Bertram, private secretary to Mr. Carnegie, stating that $50,000 would be given to East Liverpool, provided the city would furnish a site and give $3,000 a year for the maintenance of a library as proposed.

The secretary's letter was submitted to council with the result that the proposition was at once accepted, though, of course, the purchase of a site had to be left to a vote by the citizens and bonds issued therefor. The site looked on with most favor was that on which the library building now stands. It was owned by the Bradshaw heirs.

Fearing that the property might be sold before the city could arrange for its purchase, 20 leading citizens put up $1,000 each and by so doing held the location until the city was enabled to buy it. The election for the sale of bonds in the sum of $20,000 was held as soon as possible, the issue carrying with little opposition. The site was sold at public auction and was obtained by the city for $20,000. The bonds were sold to General J. W. Reilly, of Wellsville, a premium of $1,435 being realized, thus making the exact cost of the site $18,565.

This transaction gave unmistakable evidence that the much talked of library was sure to become a reality and there was general rejoicing. The gentleman who had first interested themselves in the matter continued the good work which they started and lent valuable aid in shaping the necessary details for commencing the building.

A board of directors was appointed by the city council, composed of Col. John N. Taylor, W. L. Smith, F. D. Kitchel, Dr. George P. Ikirt, George Peach and J. H. Brookes. A number of resignations have since taken place with the result that the personnel of the board has been changed so that the following are the present members: George Peach, Thomas Collins, W. L. Smith, G. Y. Travis, J. J. Purinton and W. L. Thompson.

must clothe, shelter and feed his family. After these necessities are once supplied he may cultivate and gratify his taste for the luxuries and refinements of life. The forest must first be felled before the soil may be cultivated; the weeds must be conquered before the flowers may bloom, the city must be paved, drained and lighted before the parks, fountains and boulevards are constructed. After the church and school, the necessities of modern civilization, comes the library, which is the luxury of this generation, but which will be the necessity of the next.

ous achievements along mechanical and scientific lines in the past century, and the distinguishing characteristics of the new century were described as the "death of intolerance" and the beginning of concord—concord in business, religion, between nations and between employer and employee. We see Christian and Jew, Catholic and Protestant, working side by side and shoulder to shoulder, often on the same platform, for the common purpose of obliterating ignorance and winning knowledge.

Instead of the old-time business warfare which has strewn the commercial shores with the wrecks of enterprise, we see the captains of industry marshaling together the great enterprises for the purpose of defending themselves, armies of workmen was not original with the United States. It is recorded that there were many very important libraries in Egypt, Greece, Italy, Germany and other foreign countries. These libraries had a marked influence upon the scholars of that early period. They lacked, however, that large influence which the libraries of more recent times offer to the masses, or to all who will partake of the riches found in these storehouses filled with the best of thought and culture of the past.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY HAS A LONG HISTORY OF TOIL AND WORRY

"Before speaking of the function of the public library it seems entirely fitting that your attention should be called to the extent of the library movement, like all other institutions of power, began in this country in a very humble way. They were first established as private, institutional, state and national. Later even traveling library departments were arranged and very successfully conducted.

"A notable example is found in connection with our own state library. Books are sent to any part of the state, thus extending the reach of this library's influence. The idea of largeness is as thoroughly demonstrated in the library movement as in any other department of human interest. The growth of public libraries has been most marked in the very recent years of our history. The United States bureau of education has published a report showing that the number of libraries of 1,000 volumes or more in 1900 was 5,383, containing 44,591,851 volumes.

NOTABLE GIFTS

BY MR. CARNEGIE
"There is an average of one library to every 14,118 persons and 59 volumes to every 100 of our population. In New York there are 103 volumes to every 100 of population; in Massachusetts, 236; in California, 129. Of these libraries four have over 500,000 volumes each; three between 300,000 and 500,000 and 47 between 100,000 and 300,000. There are 3,654 that have fewer than 5,000 volumes each.

"Following is a brief account of Andrew Carnegie's gifts: In 1899 he gave about $175,000 for 32 libraries; in 1900 he gave $805,000 for 25 libraries and in 1901 the sum of $13,813,000 was given for 153 libraries. During the first three months of this year Mr. Carnegie gave libraries to 107 towns. "With this very incomplete report of the library growth in this country we may take a few minutes for the consideration of the functions of the library. If it is worth the expenditure of so much that is material, what is the library worth for the development of better social condition? "First, the library is a grand edu-

Trades Council Lent Valuable Assistance—Board of Directors By Tireless Efforts Finally Succeeded in the Work Entrusted to Them.

It would be a difficult undertaking to attempt to give a complete history of the formation of the old library or give credit to all who assisted in the arduous task of bringing about the institution which is now a part of the Carnegie library.

Months and years of hard work are represented in the collection of books which, until a few days ago, were under the charge of the directors of the old library. It was early in the year of 1896 that the members of the Trades and Labor Council began at their meetings a series of discussions with a view of determining a means of benefiting the laboring classes of the city, and also to devise plans for the perpetuation of the names of the different labor organizations.

Various suggestions were offered, among them being the one for the institution of a library. A committee was appointed, composed of Messrs. A. S. Hughes, William Rhue, Thomas Mountford, C. W. Brownfield, Jacob Weisend and Thomas Osborne, who held a meeting a few days later with the result that a recommendation was made to institute a library and also asking that the committee be increased to 20 in number.

FIRST ACTIVE STEPS FOR A LIBRARY.

These recommendations were favorably acted on and without delay the work of soliciting money was begun. The first cash realized was collected from 25 employees of the old Specialty glass house, each of whom donated 25 cents. In order to more systematically canvass the city other committees were appointed to go among the business men, professional men, manufacturers and others.

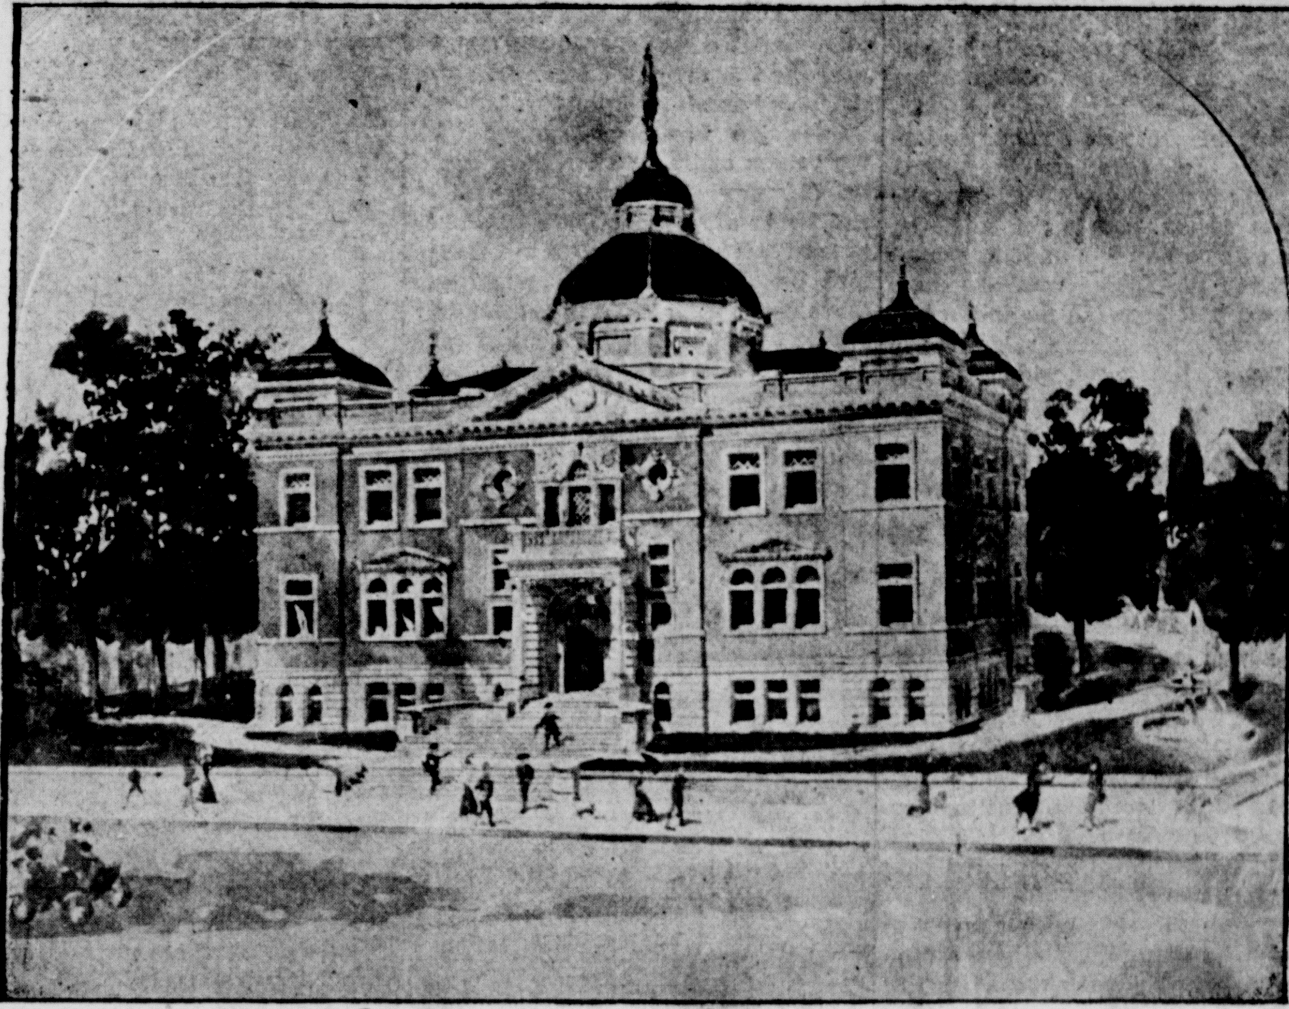

On June 16 of the same year sufficient funds had been collected to give substantial encouragement to the library project and it was decided at a meeting on that date to appoint directors and secure a location. Eleven directors were named at the meeting and on June 19 the appointees met for organization. Jacob Weisend was made president, Charles Danburg secretary, and E. M. Crosser treasurer. Plans were discussed at the meeting for increasing the funds then on hand and a decision was reached to sell membership tickets.

The directors agreed to take 100 tickets each and work in different sections of the city. The sale of the tickets being somewhat slow was the cause of no little discouragement. To William Rhue, who was one of the directors, is due the credit of giving much needed inspiration to the movement which was then apparently incapable of successful accomplishment. A hundred membership tickets, each to be sold for $1, were given in his charge, and with a strong determination to see the proposed project become a reality, he began a canvass of the territory assigned him. Before giving up his task Mr. Rhue sold his entire number of tickets with the exception of two or three.

TRADES COUNCIL

LENDS ASSISTANCE.
This was the cause of a renewed effort to raise the balance of the money needed and a few months later a benefit entertainment was held at the opera houses, followed shortly by another and also a picnic at Columbian park. These ventures, however, did not yield substantial profits and the dark cloud of financial gloom continued to menace the labors of the hard-working directors until Trades Council lent assistance.

This organization donated 25 per-

EAST LIVERPOOL CARNEGIE LIBRARY.

About the first work done by the board was to advertise for plans, preparatory to awarding the contract for the construction of the building. Drawings and plans of every description were received from architects all over the country, more than 30 different ones making bids for the work. After much consideration the decision was finally reached to accept the plans submitted by A. W. Scott, of this city, and in a short while thereafter the contract for the erection of the structure was awarded to Harvey McHenry.

The progress of the work has been watched by everyone in the entire city and, hence, needs no special mention other than well merited commendation. The beauty of design and the almost marvelous display of mechanism shown in its construction reflect a limitless degree of credit on those of the contractors, workmen, architect and all who had any connection with the building of the stately edifice.

While the populace of East Liverpool is almost a unit in an expression of gratefulness to Mr. Carnegie for his substantial gift, yet it should not be overlooked that there are others to whom the citizens should feel indebted because of their zealous and untiring efforts in securing the library which is destined to work an inestimable amount of good for this growing city. Great care and wisdom have been shown by the board of directors in the important duties under their charge, and the ceremonies of today dedicating the splendid library which has so long been held in grateful anticipation by an appreciating public, speak volumes in praises for their services and will in years to come serve as a monument to perpetuate a work that never fails to leave its reward.

W. E. WELLS' ADDRESS ON LIBRARY USES

MANY MODERN SIGNS OF TRUE
PHILANTHROPY.

The Good Old Days Not to Be Regretted—Death of Intolerance at Hand.

W. D. Wells said at the opening of his speech:

The establishment and use of libraries, the development of intellectual centers, the cultivation of the aesthetic side of life, come only with the accumulation of wealth, the establishment of social peace and order and the opportunity for leisure.

In the early days of nations and communities, the struggle for existence is all-absorbing. Man must first provide for his temporal wants. He the elevating recreations of literature and art; and to a student of the times there is no more interesting or gratifying phase of the fruits of this phenomenal prosperity than the founding of libraries, the endowment of colleges and the encouragement of higher intellectual and moral living by the entire people.

NOBLE EXAMPLES

OF GENEROSITY.

The speaker declared that the outcry against the amassing of great fortunes could not long endure, with the example of Andrew Carnegie, Cecil Rhodes and Mrs. Leland Stanford generally followed. He alluded to the princely, public benefactions of the past decade as surpassing in munificence anything recorded in history, and saw hopeful signs that the holders of great wealth are more and more coming to regard their possessions as a great trust to be administered for the benefit and improvement of their fellow-men.

This is true philanthropy. There can be no more graceful or appropriate gift than that of a library. The people now enjoy comfort and plenty. In the library they may behold the bright countenance of truth and the delightful air of quick studies, and may, if they will, seek and find the liberal education of which they were deprived by the hardships of their youth.

In the true university of these days, a collection books, our sons and daughters may take a post-graduate course, coming into communion with the great minds and the best thought of the past and the present. Books and libraries nourish genius and create artists and authors. The doctrine that all men are free and equal was that on which the republic of America was founded. There can be no equality except by the eradication of ignorance and the elevation of scholarship.

We are entering upon the real work of triumphant democracy. The real liberator and equalizer is universal education. The forces which can bring this about are the reformed and liberal church, the library and the printing press.

The humblest American may receive the rudiments of an education denied to all but the princes of the earth in the old days, when theology and intolerance shivered the air; when political differences involved the country in fratricidal war; when ruinous business competition between the great industries drove us into panic periodically. God preserve us from the "good old days!"

SPIRIT OF INTOLERANCE

FAST DYING OUT.

Allusion was made to the tremen-

and the entire nation against that destructive competition that was once believed to be the life of trade.

Great armies of men are organizing for mutual protection and the betterment of the race. Thinking men no longer question the right to organize.

As the Age of Reason brightens we may expect to see the day grow brighter—great victories and perpetual peace between capital and labor, with mutual co-operation.

Our library was constructed and equipped in this spirit. There is no more hopeful sign for the future than that this building is the donation of capital and the books which are its life and soul the donations of labor. May both alike enjoy its benefits.

The hope of a nation lies in the education of its youth, and we have a right to hope that the refining and elevating influence of this storehouse of knowledge, the achievements of our people may be nobler, their purer and their ideals higher.

PROF. RAYMAN'S SCHOLARLY SPEECH

ON THE FUNCTION OF A PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Notable Gifts of Carnegie to Education—A Grand Educational Influence.

Taking as his subject "The Functions of the Public Library," Prof. R. E. Rayman spoke as follows: "The inception of the public library cational force when properly conducted. It can only become such, however, by faithfully and judiciously serving the people. When properly conducted it should, and we believe, that it does become a most powerful element in community life. In a library of efficiency and power the children are not only taught how, but what to read, for, as Charles W. Warner once said, 'If we teach the children how to read, and stop there we have done but half our duty, and, we believe, it is by far the smaller half.'

"The great secret of reading consists in this—that it does not matter

cent of the proceeds of the Labor day celebration in 1897. The first financial reports, which were made on September 1, 1897, showed that the library board had collected $420, while the expenses amounted to about $395. Hence, it is apparent that there was not a superabundance of finances on hand.

In the latter part of 1897, W. E. Wells, who had previously been elected a member of the board of directors made a suggestion to appeal for the assessment of a levy from the school board sufficient to maintain the library. J. N. Hanley, another member of the board, appealed to Andrew Carnegie for aid, as well as to other philanthropists, but this scheme did not bring about the desired results.

However, in the course of a few weeks following the suggestion of Mr. Wells to apply for a levy, the board was increased to 15 members on the advice of Attorney J. H. Brookes. A. H. Clark, Prof. R. E. Rayman, Samuel Eardley and Harry Peach were added, and in March, 1899, incorporation papers were secured. Later in the same year the first assessment, amounting to a levy of 3.5 mills was received from the school board. The sum received was about $430, representing the allowance for half a year. Since that time an allowance of $900 a year has been forthcoming from the school board, but since the merging of the old with the Carnegie library the city assumes the obligation formerly borne by the school board.

Henry E. Porter, also one of the directors, was the first to offer a donation of books. Dr. George P. Ikirt, John J. Purinton and others also made valuable contributions. In 1898 the library was increased with 100 books, while in 1899 there were 53 volumes donated. On January 1, 1900, the librarian's report showed that there were over 1,500 volumes in her charge and since then the list has been increased until at the time of the consolidation of the two libraries more than 2,500 volumes were at the disposal of the public.

Miss Hattie Curry was appointed the first librarian, but before taking her office she became ill and died. Miss Minta McLane was then appointed and on December 1, 1896, assumed her duties, filling the position with credit to herself and satisfactorily to every one until the consolidation took place, at which time Miss Gertrude Baker, the present librarian of the Carnegie institution, was appointed.

The history of the merging of the two libraries is too well known to need further elaboration. It required special legislation to consummate the consolidation, but this was put through without difficulty a few weeks since. The new measure provides for the addition of three members from the old library board to that of the six members of the Carnegie board. At the last meeting of the city council Thomas Collins was appointed to succeed J. H. Brookes, whose term has expired, leaving three additional members yet to appoint.

Special credit is due to Thomas Hodge, who was one of the hardest

EAST END

WATER SHUT OFF

ALL SORTS OF LAMENTATION IN CHAFFINVILLE.

So Many Were Getting Water Free That Drastic Measures Were Taken.

Superintendent Phil Morley, of the water works department, shut the water off in Chaffinville, and this morning there was all sorts of howling in the East End. Notices have been served on residents that water rent must be paid, and as only half of the population of Chaffinville have been paying rent, and at the same time water was being secured by the other half free, the water works department decided to take severe measures.

In one instance there is no less than six families procuring water from one hydrant in Chaffinville who pay nothing for the accommodation. There are others who have paid their rent, and now their supply has been cut off. But the ultimatum of the water works department has been sent forth. Hydrants in the yards must be removed to the house, and they must be shut off only in case of use. If the rent for service is not paid, the water will be secured from the small run, north of Pennsylvania avenue. Provision will be made for those who have complied with the rules of the department, but those who have not done so will have to suffer.

ADDITIONAL KILNS

Several Are Soon to Be Built at the East End Sewer Pipe Works.

Announcement has been made that before long some important additions are to be made at the East End plant of the American Sewer Pipe plant. Last year Mr. Anderson said it was the intention of the company to erect several new kilns, but since then the conditions have been such that the firm has not been able to carry out its intentions.

Now that the new engine is about ready to start, the intentions of the company will be carried out. It will not be long until the order for the brick for the new kilns, and as soon as these arrive they will be built. This increased capacity means that the company will have to add to its force of workmen.

Street Paving Wanted.

There is a growing opinion among the property owners of St. George street that council should do something this summer toward improving that thoroughfare by paving. This is one of the best residence streets in the East End, and is also one that is extensively traveled. Mulberry street also should be paved, and at best it is one of the worst looking streets in the city on account of the uneven grade.

WOMEN QUARREL

MINERVA STREET NEIGHBORS SUE EACH OTHER.

Each Is Charged With Assault and Battery — One Pleads Guilty.

From the east end of Minerva street, near the Buckeye pottery, originates another story which like many others coming from this district will terminate in Squire McCarron's court. The principals involved are Mrs. Delora Barnhart and Mrs. Carrie Bushong, next door neighbors. The former in a highly indignant manner entered the squire's sanctum yesterday afternoon and after unfolding a tale overflowing with woeful accent, had a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. Bushong, charging her with assault and battery.

Constable Powell was armed with the papers and sent after the woman. No difficulty was met by the officer and he in a very short time had her in the court's presence. To the charge Mrs. Bushong pleaded guilty and sentence was given, but was immediately suspended upon her payment of the costs. In giving her side of the story Mrs. Bushong said: "I live next door to old Delora Barnhart. We both use water coming from the same hydrant. I nearly always send my children for the water I need. Her kids and mine have been fighting of late and she took it up today. So when she came over in my yard I gave her a lickin', and you know the rest all but this—I want you to arrest Delora now for assaulting and battering me and for saying bad things about me and my children."

The squire did as requested, issuing a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Barnhart on two charges—assault and battery and making libelous remarks. Her case is set for a hearing at 4 o'clock this evening.

POPE LAMENTS DEATH

Cablegram From Vatican Expressing Sorrow at Demise of Corrigan.

MASSSES WERE CELEBRATED.

Body of the Archbishop Now Lies in State in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Being Taken There Yesterday Morning—Thousands View Remains.

New York, May 8.—The Rev. Dr. Ferranti, Italian secretary to Archbishop Corrigan, made public last night a cablegram which was received at the archiepiscopal residence from Cardinal Rampolla, pontifical secretary of state at Rome, expressing the sorrow of Pope Leo at the demise of Mgr. Corrigan. The cablegram was addressed to the Rev. Dr. Ferranti and is as follows:

"The holy father with great sorrow learns of the death of the grand archbishop, whom he hoped to see in Rome very soon. His holiness, who appreciates very highly the especial merits of the dead prelate, expresses his sympathy from the depth of his heart for the Metropolitan church of New York and he prays God to give to the soul of the great archbishop the repose of the just and the premium of eternal glory.

(Signed) "Rampolla, Pontifical Secretary of State."

Masses for the repose of the soul of Archbishop Corrigan were said yesterday at St. Patrick's cathedral and were largely attended. The 6 o'clock masses were celebrated by the Rev. Father Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, and the Rev. Father Daly; at 7 o'clock the Rev. George W. Corrigan, a brother of the dead archbishop, and Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester, officiated, and at 8 o'clock the Rt. Rev. Ignatius Sanchez de Oca, bishop of San Luis Potosi, and the Rev. Father McAleer, of the cathedral clergy, were the celebrants.

Later in the morning the body of the archbishop was carried into the cathedral and placed at the end of the center aisle and just in front of the altar. The head was placed toward the altar and was elevated, so that the mourners could see the face of the dead prelate when half way down the center aisle.

At the time there were thousands of persons grouped about the cathedral awaiting the hour when the doors would be opened, so that they might have an opportunity to pay a last tribute of respect to the archbishop. The body was attired in the funeral robes.

After the body was taken into the cathedral a service was held, at which Fathers Phelan, McCreedy and Flood pronounced the absolution of the dead.

When the doors were thrown open to the public lines were formed by the police and everything possible was done to give every one an opportunity to see the dead prelate's face for the last time.

THE LIBRARY OPENING.

The Carnegie library, a beautiful building in which the city takes a just pride, is now open to the public. It is ready for use. Equipped with between 5,000 and 6,000 volumes, which will be added to constantly, it will furnish lovers of literature with abundant opportunities for mental recreation and increased knowledge.

All that need be said regarding the advantages and benefits to a city of maintaining such an institution is impressively and eloquently set forth in the able speeches published in this number of the News Review. Not only has East Liverpool reason to be proud of its library, but it has also abundant reason for pride and satisfaction in the thought that she has speakers—without importing them—who are able to do full justice to a theme so inspiring and important as the present occasion affords.

As is emphasized in the speeches, the best way the people of the city can show their appreciation of the beautiful and costly gift to them, is by making constant use of it. There is no fear that this advice will not be taken, and the value of the gift to the city will become more and more appreciated with each passing year. The library will be found to improve the morals of the city, as well as its educational tone, unless the experience of East Liverpool is different from that of other cities where such institutions are maintained. It will help to keep young people off the streets and out of questionable resorts, and will prove a blessing in manifold ways.

The present is an excellent time to appeal for donations of books. There must be thousands of volumes in this city which are neglected by their owners, which would be highly serviceable to the public if placed in the library. Citizens should search through their books and see what they can spare that the library needs.

Tillman, in the language of the small boy, appears to be "engineerin' for a lickin'." He should get it from his state in the shape of defeat in his aspirations for another term.

Lord Salisbury is apparently not a peace at any price man. His latest declaration shows that the Boers must bow to England's will or the struggle will continue.

Those Missourians are camping on the trail of the beef trust. When they begin pouring hot shot, they usually hit the mark.

As usual on important occasions, East Liverpool will conduct the library dedication in first-class style.

A REORGANIZATION OF NATIONAL BOARD

The Scheme to Be Presented to the Brotherhood Convention.

LOCALS TO TALK BUSINESS

Resolution Allowing Them to Discuss Politics or Socialism Defeated—Increased Salaries for National Officers May Be Asked.

Trenton, N. J., May 8.—(Special)—The convention of Operative Potters yesterday went on record against locals discussing socialism or other political questions at their meetings. The question was brought up in the convention and aroused spirited discussion. A resolution legalizing the discussions of political questions at such meetings was introduced and defeated by a large majority.

All the national officers feel that the locals, when they meet, should meet for business only. Aside from this discussion the report of the committee on law took up much of the attention of the convention.

A movement is on foot which if successful will change the entire construction of the board of national officers and increase the salaries of the president, first vice president and secretary. It is proposed to do away with the board of trustees, and in addition to the present national officers, choose five additional vice presidents. Besides being members of the executive board, these men, with the second vice president as chairman, will do the work now done by the trustees. This is a western movement and many eastern delegates favor it.

It is probable that a resolution favoring increased salaries will soon be introduced. President Hughes now gets $1,200 and Secretary T. J. Duffy and Vice President Hutchins $1,000 each. The increase is asked because of the additional work necessary on account of the greatly increased membership. The Brotherhood in the past year has increased its territory, and many new plants are receiving the attention of its officers.

The question of honorary membership to those leaving the trade was taken up, and met with approval, but a clause was inserted denying the privilege to those entering the saloon business.

A heated argument arose over a resolution to restrict representation in national convention to journeymen except where only apprentices are available. The resolution was defeated by a close vote.

Many locals have been troubled by persons who pay the initiation fee and then fail to join. A resolution was introduced calling for the forfeiture of all the initiation fees if the applicant does not present himself for initiation within 30 days.

At the afternoon session P. J. McMahon, president of the International Union of Stationary Engineers, briefly addressed the convention, asking the Brotherhood to assist the engineers in their movement for organization.

The western members presented a resolution fixing nine hours for all potters employed on piece work. Most of the delegates thought the men were not well enough paid to warrant reducing hours unless given an increase. The resolution was defeated.

The Brotherhood has an agreement with the manufacturers to advance two-year kilnmen apprentices to journeymen, when apprentices cannot be secured. A resolution was passed declaring the contract void, and that apprentices must serve three years. It is said the resolution was the result of manufacturers taking advantage of the old rule.

A resolution was passed prohibiting batters-out from doing the work of finishers, except where finishers cannot be had.

A most important resolution was presented calling for a uniform price list for sanitary ware pressers. It was prepared by the Sanitary Pressers' local No. 45, of Trenton. Vice President Hutchins, a sanitary presser, has given the matter much attention. The list now in force in Trenton has been in effect since 1895. Since then many new specialties have been introduced for which no uniform price is paid.

The election of officers will take place the latter part of the week. The head officials will be re-elected. The convention adjourned at noon today, and the delegates spent the afternoon visiting Princeton university.

At the Central Labor union meeting last evening, the visiting delegates were entertained and speeches were made by President Coleman, of Kilnmen's local No. 9, of East Liverpool; John Gould, of East Palestine, second vice president, and others. Leroy Orr won much applause by two recitations. Miss Stevens also gave two excellent recitations.

THE POSTAL FORCE ARE ALL REJOICING

With the assistance of Congressman Tayler, Postmaster Surles has succeeded in securing another raise in salary for the entire clerical force of the postoffice, and also an additional clerk. Two substitutes and one regular carrier have been granted, and have already entered upon their duties.

The postmaster naturally feels highly elated over so much good news after the worry and strain of the past few months, and the rapidly increasing business. He is deeply grateful to Hon. R. W. Tayler for the great interest he has taken and help rendered the postoffice. The entire force is happy this morning, and all feel thankful to both Mr. Tayler and Postmaster Surles. The following letter from the department at Washington gives full explanation of the increase granted:

May 1, 1902.

Postmaster, East Liverpool, Ohio, Sir: In compliance with your recommendation of March 3, 1902, the following changes in your roster of clerks are approved to take effect July 1, 1902: T. B. Mackey, assistant mailing clerk, advanced from $700 to $800.

Lillian J. McBane, stamp clerk, from $600 to $700.

Helena J. Coventry, stamper to general delivery clerk, from $500 to $600. John E. McClure, mailing clerk to chief mailing clerk, from $900 to $1,000. Catherine A. Plunkett, stamper, from $400 to $500.

You are also authorized to employ one additional clerk under the designation of stamper at a salary of $500, to take effect July 1, 1902.

Salaries of assistant postmasters being paid from a separate appropriation, your recommendation that the salary of your assistant be increased will be considered, and you will be further advised in regard to the same.

R. J. WYNNE,

First Assistant Postmaster General.

The assistant postmaster, Mrs. Ada Rinehart, is now receiving $1,000 and Mr. Surles hopes to also secure another substantial increase for her. Miss Alice A. Starr, the successful applicant in the late civil service examination for the position of substitute clerk, will be appointed to the regular force, and will enter upon her duties July 1, at a salary of $500. John W. Sellers, the new carrier, will now commence duty on the new route assigned. Orson B. Smith will be given the route of Mr. Jessop, who is still on the sick list, and William Carey will take the place of Carrier Suter, now in California for his health. Temporary sub carrier George Smith, who has been filling the last named route, will relieve Carrier P. F. McCloskey, who will take a much needed rest.

unable to work for several days on account of a severe attack of the grip. Yesterday he was quite ill.

Charles Surles, salesman for the D. E. McNicol pottery, who has been in the west for several weeks, has returned to the city. He reports a most successful trip.

Harry Laughlin, for several months employed as a clay carrier at Laughlin No. 2, has resigned his position. He has been succeeded by George Nelson.

William Johnson, a kilnman at the West End pottery, is very ill at his home on Jethro street. He has been unable to work for several days.

OBITUARY

George Sheckler, aged 17, a member of the sophomore class of the high school, died yesterday at his home in Gardendale of consumption. He was one of the brightest pupils in the class. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 4 p. m., from the home of his stepfather, W. T. Davis, Dr. Crawford officiating. A large number of his schoolmates will attend and furnish music and flowers.

NOTABLE IMPROVEMENT

A. Trotter & Sons Have an Up-to-Date Place of Business.

One of the most notable improvements to the city in the building line has just been completed on the corner of East Market street and the Calcutta road. It is the new structure erected by A. Trotter & Son, which adjoins their old business block. Owing to the enormity of business found it necessary to enlarge the establishment and have done so in a magnificent manner. The new building is 50 feet in width, 70 feet in length, three stories high and gives an additional floor space of nearly 1,000 feet. A more enhancing structure of the kind could not be designed and the firm is being highly complimented for its showing of enterprise.

With the two buildings A. Trotter & Son will now be able to display one of the best and most complete lines of harness, carriages and buggies ever seen in the city and it is their wish that everyone avail themselves of the opportunity.

Mitchell So Stated When Scranton Convention Adjourned Yesterday.

Meet Again Today.

Scranton, Pa., May 8.—The miners' representatives were in session yesterday, but nothing was done of which any definite knowledge would be given the public. The meeting, as far as the outside world knows, made absolutely no change in the situation.

When the meeting adjourned President Mitchell gave out the following meagre and indefinite response to a request for an account of what had been done:

"The committee is canvassing the situation very carefully. No decision has as yet been reached. The committee will meet again tomorrow at 9 o'clock a. m." Further than this nothing authoritative could be learned of the proceedings.

When asked if anything had been heard from the operators Mr. Mitchell said:

"I have heard nothing from the operators. No concessions have been granted and I know nothing of any movement to secure concessions."

The comparatively early adjournment of yesterday's meeting has led to a general belief here that the miners were waiting for something to turn up, despite the positive public statements of President Mitchell that he knows of no mediatory moves. The usual crop of sensational stories were afloat last night, among them one to the effect that the companies have a thousand men assembled at Buffalo ready to come on and man the pumps and hoisting engine, should the firemen and engineers go out with the miners in case of a strike, as State Secretary Mullahy, of the Stationary Firemen's association, has declared they would do.

BOAT STILL RUNNING

The Captain of the Ferry Boat Emily Has Not Yet Been Arrested.

Up to the present time Captain Brandon, of the new ferry boat Emily, has not been arrested by any of the Hancock county authorities for landing the boat at Congo, as was threatened by George D. Ingram, attorney for Watson Johnston, yesterday morning.

Regardless of a notice of an order of supersedeas, which was served on Captain Brandon instructing him to discontinue landing the boat on the Congo shore, the craft is still in operation and carrying passengers backward and forward between Congo and this city and according to a statement made yesterday by Captain C. J. Griffith, of Pittsburg, one of the owners of the boat, will continue to run until the case of Watson Johnston against Samuel B. Goucher comes up in the circuit court of Hancock county, which convenes the latter part of June.

Captain Griffith came to Wellsville yesterday afternoon in answer to a telephone call of Captain Brandon and in a conversation with a News Review representative said: "We will continue to run the Emily between Wellsville and Congo until the June term of Hancock county circuit court, but will not charge anyone to come from Congo to Wellsville, whether on foot or horseback. The only charge which we will make for the trip will be from Wellsville to Congo."

"As for the notice of an order of supersedeas I wish to say that none of the owners of the boat have received any such notice."

The services of Hon. William M. O. Dawson, secretary of the state of West Virginia, have been secured by the ferry boat company to fight the case when it is brought up to the United States supreme court.

COUNCIL MEETING

Decision Reached to Sewer Commerce Street and Kelly Avenue.

A special meeting of council was called last evening to take action on the sewerage of Commerce street and Kelly avenue and to let the contract for the paving of Kelly avenue. It was found that there is $7,236 in the sanitary sewer fund and after the expense of placing an additional piece of storm water sewer on Commerce street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth has been paid a large amount will still remain.

This work will have to be done before the paving of Commerce street can begin. The paving contract was awarded to Harrison Rinehart.

Council ordered the clerk to borrow $7,000 to defray the expense of the paving until the bonds for same are paid.

Contractor Rinehart requested council to investigate the condition of Clark avenue and have it put into shape so that teams can drive over the street. Mr. Rinehart is unable to haul brick from the brick yard for paving.

A committee of three councilmen were appointed to investigate the matter, with power to act.

TWO ARRESTS

Both the Victims Are Charged With Drunkenness.

Two men were arrested yesterday and escorted to the city lockup. One was in charge of Officers Houser and

Davis and one was brought in by Officers Thorn and Pittinger. The one whom the former officers had in charge was found drunk in the U. S. pottery and the latter was also drunk, but aside from this will also be charged with using profane language. He was found at the Carroll-Porter Boiler works in an intoxicated condition and trying to set fire to the plant. He claimed that the management of the works owed him a small amount of money, and that they would not pay him, whereupon he decided to put the company out of business.

Both parties will be given a hearing today before Mayor Fogo.

ON A STRIKE

Mechanics at the Carroll-Porter Works Demand a Nine-Hour Day.

Ninety machinists and mechanics walked out of the Carroll-Porter boiler works at 7 o'clock this morning on strike. Last evening a union was formed and they decided to demand a nine-hour day at the same wages that they have been receiving for ten hours' work. The company says the demand will not be granted.

TRADES COUNCIL REORGANIZED

ELECTION OF OFFICERS HELD LAST NIGHT.

Much Interesting Business Preceded This Interesting Part of the Work.

But few of the more than 60 delegates whose credentials had been presented to trades council, were absent from the meeting last night.

A few of the delegates had neglected to bring along their credentials. This omission prevented them from taking active part in the proceedings but they were not denied admission.

A communication was received from the street railway employees of Jamestown, N. Y., which informed the council that the long drawn-out strike there had been settled.

Treasurer Reark made his report, showing the finances of the organization to be in excellent condition. He was followed by Fred Herbert, who made a report for the auditing committee. The committee had performed the work assigned to it, finding the books of the officers in good shape.

Five dollars was voted the Latimer memorial fund, and the secretary will forward the money to the officers of the Mine Workers' union at Wilkes-barre today.

The Alliance machinists asked for aid to continue their fight against the Morgan engineering works, and $10 was ordered sent.

The election of officers was next in order, and the outcome was as follows:

President—Crisp McConnell.
Vice President—Henry Moore.
Recording and Corresponding Secretary—Robert Buchanan.
Financial Secretary—G. B. M. Beaty.

Treasurer—J. E. Anderson.
Inspector—William Cope.
Sergeant-at-arms—J. Jewell.
Trustees—D. M. McLane, John Reark, Richard Herbert.

President McLane installed the officers and the meeting adjourned.

DANGEROUS STUFF

New York Authorities Seize a Quantity of Alum Baking Powder.

The health authorities of New York have seized a quantity of so-called cheap baking powder, which it found in that city. Attention was attracted to it by the low price at which it was being sold in the department stores. Samples were taken to the chemist of the health department and the stuff was pronounced to be "an alum powder," which analysis showed to be composed chiefly of alum and pulverized rock.

The powder was declared to be dangerous to health, and several thousand pounds were carted to the offal dock and destroyed.

It is unsafe to experiment with these so-called "cheap" articles of food. They are sure to be made of alum, rock or other injurious matter. In baking powders, the high class, cream of tartar brands are the most economical, because they go farther in use and are healthful beyond question.

SCOTTISH REFORMATION

All in Readiness For the Great Historical Play This Evening.

The long talked of "Scottish Reformation" will be given for the first time tonight. The tide of enthusiasm has been growing higher and the success of the entertainment is assured.

The large class of 220 have been rehearsing nightly for ten nights and are well prepared to give a very fine rendition of this popular entertainment. Mrs. Monroe as a lecturer needs no introduction to an East Liverpool audience and without doubt her Scottish Reformation will be received with the same enthusiasm as attended her "Luther" of several years ago.

The entertainment will open with an overture by McGraw's orchestra at 8 o'clock sharp. The seats have been selling rapidly, but there are some good ones yet to be had.

A TEST CASE

SOUTH SIDE

DOUBLE TRACKING

Of the Street Railway One of the Problems to Come Before Council.

One matter of particular importance which is to come before the Chester council at the meeting this evening will be the double tracking of the Rock Springs street railway line.

The management of the company claim that they have a right to double track their road according to their franchise, and ask council that they thoroughly investigate the matter and give the company permission to go ahead with the work. Most of the councilmen seem favorably inclined to grant this request, and it will be investigated at the meeting this evening.

BOTH FOR ADULTS

AND CHILDREN

"The function of a library, it should be remembered, is not only to serve the children, but the adults of this age, for, while we have greatly intensified the educational effort in behalf of the children in recent years, there has been an equal effort for the advancement of the adults. Adult education has been carried on through reading circles, Chautauque schools and special college and university work and in all this effort toward the education of adults the library has been a very potent factor. The helpful library is one that is more than a storehouse for books. It is one in which there is a directing influence, giving higher life and inspiration to those who frequent it for help. It can only do this by studying and formulating the best plans to direct and assist those who seek a broader culture."

"The library has always been a source of great educational help, but this is most strikingly true since 1876 when 100 librarians met in Philadelphia for the consideration of plans of work. This conference led to the enlargement and enrichment of the library's educating influence throughout the country. Since then it has become a co-operative institution for all that is highest and best in the development of character. It has become a source of richest culture through the influence of which many have been led to economize their time so as to be able to enjoy the help received from this storehouse of information. The universal outlook for education makes the library a positive force in social life."

PUBLIC APPRECIATES

GOOD LITERATURE

"Let it be hoped that early in the twentieth century the laboring class will have shorter hours of work, more leisure for reading and an appreciation of good books equal to that of Charles Lamb, who asserted that there was more reason for saying grace before a new book than before a dinner. Under the beneficent influence of free text books and free libraries it should be possible to create in the rising generation a spirit like that of Macaulay, who declared that he would prefer to be a poor man in a garret with plenty of books rather than a king who did not love reading."

"With our free schools and libraries, the humblest child in this and every other city of our land can become a king with almost unlimited power over his own intellectual kingdom. He can be trained to look, to see, and to enjoy the richest palaces of thought known to history, literature and art."

M'LANE SKETCHES

OLD LIBRARY HISTORY

FIRST ORGANIZED EFFORT FOR A PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Years of Diligent Effort Crowned With a Grand Measure of Success.

David M. McLane, in making the presentation of the old library to the new institution, spoke in part as follows:

"I have been asked by your committee on arrangements to prepare a short sketch of the history of the public library. It will be impossible for me to give more than the main points and thus at a glance we shall see the great work that has been accomplished."

"Some time prior to the year 1896 there arose a great interest among the labor organizations of the city for a place in which they might establish a home, as they determined it to be."

"It was some time in the spring of 1896 that the work became practical. Rev. Shivera had concluded a series of evangelical meetings, and the question arose, 'How can we hope to hold the great mass of people who have promised to live better lives if we do not provide a home for them?' This question seemed to be prevalent and the library question was raised."

"The Trades and Labor council, after much discussion, took up the work and finally decided to appoint a committee to look into the matter. This committee decided that a public library would meet with the pleasure of the people."

"The following members were appointed on this committee: C. W. Brownfield, Thomas Osbourne, J. J. Weisand, A. S. Hughes, Thomas Mountford and William Rue."

THE CITY'S FIRST

LIBRARY BOARD.

"After several meetings it was decided to increase the membership of this committee to 20 in number, which number constituted the first library commission of our city. Regular meetings of this committee were held from time to time and in May of 1896, the members rented the room in the Thompson building which was occupied by the institution up until a few days ago."

"A general movement was then started in behalf of the new library among the business men, the ministers and the church people, resulting in many subscriptions."

"In June the board of directors was appointed and on June 19, 1896, the board met and organized. J. J. Weisand was made president; Charles Danberg, secretary, and E. H. Crosser, treasurer; the other members being J. H. Brookes, Thomas Mountford, F. W. Fowler, John Brannon, J. N. Hanley, J. Miles and H. E. Porter. It was at this meeting that it was decided to sell membership tickets as a way of increasing the funds of the library."

"The first book ordered was the Model Library of Scribner, at a cost of $275. It was not until September 14, 1896, that the library was finally opened to the public. The salary of the librarian was fixed at $20 per month. It seemed a hard struggle to maintain the newly opened institution. Committees were at work soliciting funds, which were slow about coming in, so that the first two years were a mere existence."

"Various ways were tried to obtain funds. Membership tickets, good for one year, were sold at $1 each. Donations were solicited, and on March 23, 1897, a home talent play was given in the opera house which resulted in a very small amount being raised. On August 3 of the following year a picnic was held at Columbian park and the proceeds turned over to the library."

"The first report of the librarian is recorded on August 3, 1897. It shows the following: Number of readers, 177; number of books loaned, 285; number of reference books used, 6; new members, 7."

"The board of directors had a good idea of their work for on January 25, 1898, at the suggestion of W. E. Wells, the trustees were instructed to confer with the city solicitor in regard to securing a levy for the purpose of supporting the library. Also to petition the legislature for a special act for the same purpose."

"At a regular meeting held February 9, 1898, another entertainment was undertaken, which resulted in a financial gain for the institution."

"At a meeting held on May 25 of the same year a communication was read from J. H. Brookes, informing the board of an existing law that gave the school board the power to levy three and five-tenths mills in cities of this class. It was at once decided that the board should incorporate and application was immediately made. After this was carried out the board was increased to 15 members, and a general revival started in the interest of the library. The school board made its levy and this came in the following year. It might be interesting to sum up the reports as we can more easily comprehend the work. The total number of books in the possession of the public library September 1, 1897, was 728."

"The report for 1898 follows: Readers, 2,238; visitors, 3,353; books loaned, 2,172; reference books used, 218; active members, 39; total number of books, 828; receipts for the year, $248.24; expenses, $222.98."

"The report for 1899 shows the following: Receipts for the year, $1,276.28; expenses, $1,191.11; readers, 2,369; visitors, 3,875; books loaned, 2,864; reference books used, 150; number of books shelved, 1,544."

"The report for 1900 and 1901 showed large increases in books and patronage and the report from Jan. 1 to May 1, 1902, showed 440 readers, 1,573 visitors and 4,037 books loaned. The library presented this afternoon con-

ROOSEVELT HONORARY OFFICIAL

Chosen a Vice President to Fill the Vacancy Caused by President McKinley's Death—Vacancies in Board of Managers Filled.

New York, May 8.—At the seventy-seventh annual meeting of the American Tract society, held yesterday, President Roosevelt was elected an honorary vice president to fill the place made vacant by the death of President McKinley.

General O. O. Howard, president of the society, occupied the chair. The total number of volumes issued during the past 77 years is 32,511,394; of tracts, 448,351,292, and of periodicals, 261,188,668, making a grand total of 742,051,354 copies of publications printed.

Twenty-nine new publications have been issued at various foreign mission stations. The foreign cash appropriation for the past year is $5,000. The grand total of foreign cash appropriations since the foundation of the society is $742,212.43.

An address was made by the Rev. Courtenay H. Fenn, secretary of the North China Tract society. He spoke in the highest terms of the co-operation of the American Tract society in past years and made a spirited appeal for further help for China, which country, he said, was on the verge of a great awakening.

The Rev. S. G. Underwood, a Korean missionary, spoke about conditions in that field and asked the society for help to provide a literature for that country. Rev. Dr. John Kerr, formerly of San Francisco, who is the newly appointed secretary of publications, made a brief address.

An appropriate resolution was adopted commending in terms of warmest praise on the services rendered the society by Rev. Dr. William M. Hand, who leaves the post of secretary of publication, which he has filled for 54 years. Rev. J. Ross Stevenson and William C. Bittling were elected to fill vacancies in the board of managers caused by death.

M. P. HOME MISSION BOARD.

Annual Meeting at Pittsburgh—Woman's Board For Freedmen Met Yesterday.

Pittsburg, May 8.—The board of home missions of the Methodist Protestant church convened yesterday morning for its annual meeting. The members present were the Rev. William C. Miller, of Nebraska; the Rev. S. S. Fisher, of Ohio; the Rev. J. M. Sheridan, of Maryland; Harry Reeves, of Steubenville; William Wilson, of Illinois, and several visitors. The day was passed in reviewing the report of the executive committee for the year, making appropriations and in laying out new work. The business was purely routine and will be completed tonight.

The annual meeting of the Women's Board for Freedmen, in connection with the board of home missions in New York, was held yesterday in the rooms of the Freedmen's board in the McClintock block. The women were delighted at the report that the board raised over $65,000 last year for the work in the south. Letters and reports were received from several institutions and schools carried on by the women's board. It was resolved to push the work with energy. The secretary, Mrs. Flora D. Palmer, will address the presbytery of Manatee, at DeFiance, O., and the presbytery of Zanesville, at Zanesville, O., and will go Friday to New York to arrange the exhibit of the Freedmen's board in the New York mission house, a part of the general exhibit of the board of home missions, in connection with its centennial celebration.

ALL WRONG

The Mistake is Made By Many East Liverpool Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine that relief is cure.

You must cure the kidneys.

An East Liverpool resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. W. P. Cochran, of Mulberry street, East End, says: "At intervals for 30 years I had serious kidney and bladder trouble. The agony I went through can hardly be described. Many nights I rolled from one side to another trying to find an easy position for my back. I could not move without having sharp twinges of pain, and I was also troubled with urinary difficulty, the secretions being very irregular, and at times very distressing. I ran down so that I could hardly help myself. Doctors treated me. I took a power of stuff and I had given up all hope when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a never failing remedy. I got a box at the W. & W. pharmacy and after taking half of it I could see some improvement. I continued, and the treatment did me more good than anything I ever used."

Sold for 50 cents a box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WORK STOPPED

Strike of Tin Metal Workers Employed on Thompson Hobbs Building.

Just when the Thompson-Hobbs building on Fifth street will be completed is now a matter of conjecture, due to a strike of the men employed in placing the iron ceilings in the three stories. Last Thursday the workmen, four in number, received a telegram from the tin metal workers' association, of Pittsburgh, ordering them to go on a strike, stating that the scale presented by them to the contractors, asking for an advance from $3.50 to $4 per day, had not been accepted.

The men immediately dropped their tools and left for their homes in Pittsburgh. They are employed by the Iron City Metal Ceiling company and Architect A. W. Scott, who has charge of the erection of the building, states that he has heard nothing from either the men or the contractors. Mr. Scott states that were it possible he would start local men at the work, but as the unions will not allow it, he will be compelled to wait until the strike is settled.

Much inconvenience to other workmen about the building has been caused by the awkward state of affairs. The carpenters are being delayed in their work and also the plumbers. It is stated that if the strike is not settled within a few days all work will be temporarily stopped, much to the annoyance of all concerned.

SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION

Held By Columbiana County Sunday Schools at East Palestine.

The annual Columbiana county Sunday school convention, which had been in session at the M. E. church at East Palestine since Monday, was brought to a close Tuesday evening, and the delegates returned to their homes. This convention was successful and profitable in every way.

The program, previously published, was carried out with but few exceptions, some of the members being absent and unable to respond to the subjects assigned to them. Rev. W. F. McCauley presided. The reports on the work in the county for the past year were very encouraging and showed the Sunday schools throughout the county to be in a healthy and prosperous condition.

At the election of officers Tuesday afternoon the following were chosen to serve for the coming year: W. F. McCauley, of Salem, president; W. M. Glasgow, of Wellsville, vice president; L. W. Weisgerber, of Salem, secretary and treasurer; Rev. Mr. Miller, of East Palestine, superintendent of normal work; Mrs. Jennie McMillan, of Lisbon, superintendent of junior work; Mrs. H. L. Mitchell, of Salem, superintendent of home department.

It was decided that the next annual convention should be held in Wellsville in a year.

Travelers to California

Naturally desire to see the grandest and most impressive scenery en route. This you will do by selecting the Denver & Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western, "The Scenic Line of the World," in one or both directions, as this line has two separate routes across the Rocky mountains between Denver and Ogden. Tickets reading via this route are available either via its main line through the Royal George, Leadville, over Tennessee Pass, through the Canon of the Grand river and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon of the Gunnison, thus enabling the traveler to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Three splendidly equipped fast trains are operated to and from the Pacific coast, which carry through standard sleepers daily between Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. Dining cars (service a la carte) on all through trains. If you contemplate such a trip, let us send you beautifully illustrated pamphlets, free. S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Col. 7-4344

COWARDLY WORK

An Unknown Man Trying to Hurt Cyclists By Scattering Broken Glass.

In the city there lives an individual with more downright cowardice and general lawlessness than can be expressed. The name of the infamous creature is not known, but within a few days he may be apprehended, as the entire police force has been instructed by Mayor Davidson to institute a careful search for him. It is also the wish of Mayor Davidson that law abiding citizens will join in the investigation.

The dastard in question is guilty of distributing broken glass along Fifth and Sixth streets. Why he does it no one knows, but it is supposed he has a grudge against a bicycle rider and is resorting to the above means to get even. If it were his intended victim alone who would suffer the consequences, the deed would not be considered so seriously; but when, as in this case, human lives and valuable property are endangered stringent measures are necessary for the protection of the public welfare.

A piece of glass when stepped upon by either a person or a horse may cause poisoning. Glass on a pneumatic tired vehicle is in a manner as disastrous. The mayor, in speaking of the matter, said: "It is a disreputable outrage. I will do everything within my power to catch the perpetrator, and if he is found I most certainly will give him the full extent of the law. People, horses, bicycles and rubber tired turn-outs must be protected, and if they are not, it won't be my fault."

KIDNEY DISEASE AVERTED.

Some Rules for People of Sedentary Habits.

How to Detect This Approaching Trouble and Nip It in the Bud.

Sedentary habits cause kidney troubles. People who are obliged to sit all day long, stenographers, telephone and telegraph operators, seamstresses, milliners, shoe makers, tailors, book keepers, clerks who stand over a counter, engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, and others on steam and electric railroads, are all more or less affected with disease in the kidneys. Long hours in a sitting posture cramps the kidneys, bowels and other organs in the pelvic regions. You will find that nearly everyone of these people has constipation, and a great many more of them have kidney troubles and don't know it. Often incipient Bright's disease will fasten itself upon a person and the only indication of anything wrong that the layman can discern is a slight aching or tired feeling across the small of the back. This goes unheeded because it is itself apparently of no great consequence. Let the knowing physician examine the water, when these symptoms are manifest, and he'll find a clouded, discolored, albuminous fluid that tells as plainly as a picture that inside of these delicate and important organs there exists a condition of disease such as to need quick and powerful treatment in order to preserve them from decay and save the life of the owner. Always be on your guard for the slightest pain or soreness across the back. Don't let it go unheeded for at that very instant your kidneys may be in an awful condition. When healthy they perform an important function, that of filtering and purifying the liquids that pass into your system. They do it so carefully too that not the most infinitesimal speck of foreign or disease-breeding matter can get into the vitals of the body. While they are healthy, they do more toward keeping you well than any other organ of the whole anatomy. When they are impoverished and weak, unable to stand as the barrier against disease, it's like throwing down the protecting walls and picket lines of a great city and letting the enemy, uninterrupted, walk in. Think of these precious organs becoming enfeebled through want of nourishment. Think of them instead of being plump, vigorous, healthy, of being thin, lifeless, almost bloodless, eaten full of holes and secretion, a pus that would make you hold your nose, could you see it. Think of them in their struggling attempt to obey nature, pouring this filthy and disgusting mass into your lungs, heart and everywhere over the body, on account of their inability to eject it through the proper channels and out of the system.

Does this appear to you as being healthful? Yet you, though not suspecting it, may be in this very position. If you have a running sore on your arm, you would bathe it carefully with warm water to cleanse it, then tenderly cover it with some healing lotion. This much to protect it from the poisons in the air, and to assist your internal medicines to act more thoroughly. Your kidneys need washing as much as your arm. You need to flush out that pus and secretion and assist nature to restore healthy action. You need something known to go direct to your kidneys through the blood and that has a healthy effect. "Blood Wine" will do this and so marked is its action on the kidneys that you can actually feel it working on them within a few minutes after taking a dose.

It gives them just the kind of bath they need and it heals up the sore. It takes away the smarting, burning, painful, dragged-down, all-gone sensations, as if by magic. It takes sediments of all kinds out of the little nooks and corners where they lodge and cause brick dust, gravel, stone in bladder, inflammation, etc. If you have any of these troubles, or even if you have any of the slightest symptoms of kidney disease, you ought to protect yourself. It is easier to prevent than to cure any disease. A bottle of "Blood Wine," costing fifty cents, will often save off a serious trouble, and spare the patient's life, to say nothing of saving great expense and long suffering.

Read this expression of gratitude from a Worcester, Mass., woman, who has had an excellent chance to make a careful investigation of "Blood Wine." Mrs. Ann P. Stocking says:

MRS. ANN P. STOCKING.

"I live right here in the city where 'Blood Wine' is made. I have seen with my own eyes the cures it has effected all about me, and I have been cured myself of a very stubborn case of kidney disease. I suffered for several years, had all the symptoms that ever accompanied such a trouble, and tried about every remedy recommended. 'Blood Wine' was the last. I took it only after being convinced that it was a truly wondrous medicine, and it cured me. I went to the Louis Daudelin Co. and volunteered this statement, because I knew them to be honest, upright people and deserving of success. 'Blood Wine' will cure any form of kidney disease and do it quickly and thoroughly. Anyone so affected should try this great medicine just as soon as they can get their hands on a bottle."

Go to your druggist and look into it carefully; read the literature and ascertain for yourself just what it will do. It contains no wine or opiates.

"Blood Wine" costs fifty cents a bottle, but you can sample it free of charge at Will Reed's and Hodson's drug stores.

MAY POSTPONE ADJOURNMENT

Legislative Session Possibly to Be Prolonged Another Week.

ARCHER IS A CANDIDATE

For a Third Term as Senator—There Are Others Who Want the Honor—Congress Asked to Pension Ex-Prisoners—Legislative Notes.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, May 8.—Hon. Frank B. Archer, of Bellaire, president of the senate, will be a candidate for a third term. While he has not yet made any formal declaration of his candidacy, it is understood from trustworthy sources that he will make an effort to succeed himself. He will have opposition. Representative M. N. Duvaul, of Steubenville, Jefferson county, has announced himself as a candidate, and it is stated that Mr. McGavran, of Cadiz, who is a member of the state medical board of registration and examination, will also seek the honor. The word has been passed around among the members of the senate that Archer will be a candidate to succeed himself.

The general assembly may be forced into rescinding its resolution to adjourn on Monday, May 12. A bare possibility exists that the session may be prolonged for another week. Mr. Moore, the "sage" of Athens, is causing more trouble. The senate passed the first of the general appropriation bills, but not until it had been subjected to much mutilation at the hands of the aforesaid gentleman, who is chairman of the finance committee. The house finance committee spent many wearisome hours on the bill, giving it earnest and most careful consideration.

Moore has a variety of axes to grind and when the bill reached his hands he got busy. The house has declined to do his bidding and he took advantage of the opportunity to get even. He undid much of the work of the house committee and also added much to it. He chopped off appropriations aggregating almost $82,000 and added some $208,000, making a net increase considerably over $100,000. The senate passed the bill and sent it to the house for concurrence. Wednesday afternoon that body very properly and very decisively refused to concur in the amendments. Conference committees will be appointed by both bodies to adjust the matter if possible. If they cannot do that at once, it will be necessary to repeal the adjournment resolution and extend the session one week.

The house adopted the Arthur bill memorializing congress to pass the bill pending before that body to pension all union ex-prisoners of war. The G. A. R. organizations of the state are behind the bill. The senate passed the York bill appropriating $15,000 for extermination of the San Jose scale and other insects and contagious diseases affecting trees. The Willis bill prohibiting the unauthorized use of the union label was made a law by the senate. It was backed by the labor organizations of the state. The Metzger and Pollock bond bills for the city of Canton were made laws by the senate. One provides for the payment of school indebtedness and the other for a new market house.

The Ohio League of Municipalities is sending out telegrams to the mayors of cities urging them to send representatives to Columbus to aid in a movement to secure the defeat of the Jones bill, just made a law, which relieves railroads from maintaining arc lights on bridges and at grade crossings. It is claimed that if the bill remains a law, municipalities of the state will have to tax themselves $1,000,000 to pay for the lights which have been kept by the railroads. The contention of the railroads was that the lights were conducive to accidents in that they blinded engineers.

The life pension certificate of Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley has been received at the Columbus agency. It is dated in April and calls for $5,000 annually, payable in quarterly installments, the first being due on June 4. This is the second president's widow's pension drawn through the local agency, Mrs. Garfield's being the other.

Dr. A. C. Yengling, Truant Officer David Groner, James Robbins, Will Horn and Henry Older, of Salem, came to Columbus Wednesday from Lancaster, where they attended the G. A. R. encampment. They left today for home.

A tramp stole a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. When he appeared in court he explained that he saw in the advertisement that it was "easy to take," so he took it. "Discharged," said the judge. "I will go and take some myself." It is easy to take and it is a perfect laxative. Sold by W. & W. pharmacy.

THE ACCEPTANCE OF THE TWO GIFTS

JOHN J. PURINTON'S SPEECH IN BEHALF OF BOARD.

Need of a Liberal Spirit in Looking After Educational Institutions.

John J. Purinton said:

"It gives me the greatest of pleasure to accept, on behalf of the Carnegie Library board, from your hands the books and effects of the East Liverpool Public Library, representing as it does the years of patient toil and effort upon the part of the laboring class of our city to provide themselves and their fellow workmen and women the means of self-education, knowledge and culture.

"I am sure the public will never forget those zealous, persistent workmen who, after having earned the bread for themselves and families, devoted the remaining hours of the day in stirring up the latent embers of interest in a public library, gathering them together and by careful and persistent effort formed them into so cheerful a glow that their light and heat has constantly increased, and today they are able to lay at our feet a free will offering of over 2,500 volumes of choice literature.

"Nothing that labor can do will or can give it so high a standing and respect in the eyes of the world at large as the honest effort on its part to elevate its own mental and moral conditions through the broadening and uplifting influence of choice literature. The donor of this beautiful structure appreciates this fact, and like you, is making an honest effort to elevate the mental condition of the masses; for he sees, as you have seen, the material condition of the working man can only be permanently improved by his first becoming an intelligent working man—one who can maintain and insist upon his rights by force of reason and not by force of numbers.

FULL FRUITION

IN FUTURE YEARS.

"These corner stones of libraries Andrew Carnegie is laying over this fair land of ours will see fullest fruition in the condition of the working people of the future generations; and through them and from them the future rulers of finance, industry and government.

"In accepting this gift to the people from your hands without condition or reservation, I recognize, and the Carnegie Library board will honor the trust, and hold it all the more sacred—as the donor of this building would also admonish us to do—for its freedom from conditions, and endeavor to so administer and plan that no regret of your action today shall ever arise.

"We would ask you to take back to your warm-hearted associates and to our working men and women in general the word that they cannot honor your gift nor the gift of Andrew Carnegie higher than by patronizing and enjoying to the fullest extent of their ability these splendid rooms and books.

"The building was erected and the books bought to be used—not looked at and admired.

"The fact that the furnishings are of the best, with all the conveniences to be had is not to be construed in any other way than that nothing is too good for the man, woman or child desiring knowledge, no matter how humble his calling or walk in life. Fill these rooms and empty the racks, is the desire of the givers."

THIS CITY INDEED

MOST FORTUNATE

After further words of gratitude to the East Liverpool library association, the speaker proceeded to say that fortunate indeed is the city that has such a gift bestowed upon it. Capital is represented in this magnificent building and its equipment and labor in the gift of these volumes, the total of years of effort of a noble and generous band of workmen, with the breadth of character and wisdom to join hands with capital and stand united in an effort to better mankind. Could the spectacle here today be repeated in every city and village, what a revolution for good would be effected.

If we add to the public school—the bulwark of our liberties—the influence of free libraries we broaden our national greatness. The public schools have always been conducted on a policy of liberality and the taxpayers have borne the burden cheerfully. A similar policy is asked of those entrusted with the duty of providing funds for this foster brother of the public schools.

Over 95 per cent of our children never finish the full public school courses. Now that we can pass them from the doors of the school to the door of the library, I ask that you furnish the means to keep those doors open wide and to fill up the vacant shelves.

The donor's generosity in making a condition that the city give $3,000 a year—whereas in all other $50,000 libraries he has fixed the sum for maintenance at $5,000 a year—should not be construed to mean that the $3,000 is the maximum, but rather the minimum, to be increased from year to year, as the growing needs and welfare of the institution demand.

PRESENTATION OF

If retrenchment in your finances must of necessity be at times let them be in times that will not curtail the mental and moral sources of growth. Keep your schools and libraries in full and efficient working order and through them in their effects your object will be attained.

The board appointed by the council of our city to expend the $50,000 given by Andrew Carnegie for the purpose of erecting and furnishing a library have completed their labors and today stand ready to deliver the building complete, as we believe in every respect, the plans of the same having been first approved by Mr. Carnegie himself, and there has been no deviation from them.

The ground furnished by the city at a cost of $20,000 has been laid out and improved in a manner as we thought suitable and best, and we trust will meet the approval of all.

The books within, numbering nearly 6,000 volumes, represent an outlay of fully $6,000, and makes a total investment of $76,000. That it is my pleasure, Mr. Mayor, to deliver to you for the use and benefit of our citizens. In presenting this library I do so with the admonition that its administration be ever kept free from factional strife. Let its directors be men noted for their purity and breadth of character, and exact the strictest accounting from them.

THE MAYOR'S SPEECH

Expressing Deep Appreciation of the Substantial Gift.

Mayor W. C. Davidson, who made the concluding address in behalf of the city, expressed appreciation of the substantial gift and eulogized in fitting terms those who were instrumental in bringing about the institution.

The mayor told how the library could become more appreciated as it becomes older and expressed a wish that it should always be a source of usefulness whereby its patrons could profit. While marked by brevity, the mayor's address was forceful, logical and was well received.

A VERY HANDSOME PUBLIC EDIFICE

THE CARNEGIE LIBRARY BUILD-ING DESCRIBED.

Those Whose Efforts Helped to Furnish the Beautiful
Interior.

The Carnegie Library building is one of the most substantial and handsomest structures in the state. Aside from being fireproof it is almost as solid as a rock and of the very latest design. It is divided into 21 rooms, not including the vestibule and dome, all being arranged in a most convenient manner.

Architect A. W. Scott designed the building, which was erected in exact accordance with the plans and specifications furnished by him. While the matter has never before been made public, it is admitted by Mr. Scott that Mr. Kline, secretary of Andrew Carnegie, dictated to him the plans by which the structure was built.

Miss Gertrude Baker, who is in charge of the library, needs no commendation as to her competency to properly fill her position. For two years she was assistant librarian at Cleveland; also for two years assistant librarian at Los Angeles, Cal., and for two years chief librarian at Mt. Vernon, from which city she came to East Liverpool.

Aside from her many years of practical experience, Miss Baker is a graduate of the library training school at Los Angeles and also another at Albany, N. Y. Though only having been in this city a few months the young lady has gained great popularity. Miss Mary Hall, the assistant librarian, is also well qualified and an earnest worker.

To the Milligan Hardware company is due the credit of beautifying the interior of the new library building. This firm had the contract for furnishing nearly everything for the inside, excepting the furniture, and the work done by the men in the company's employ, with the splendid material furnished them, stands as a marvel of beauty.

From the lavatories in the basement to the chandeliers in the ceiling of the rooms in the upper floor the Milligan company supplied the plumbing, electrical work, iron work, including the handsome stairs, tile and marble work, which cannot be excelled in fineness of design and finish, sanitary work, wiring, steel lath, turnstiles, tin and copper work.

The chandeliers, of which there are several dozens, are of a combination and special design, fitted for both gas and electricity. A large chandelier in the upper ceiling overlooking the rotunda is of striking beauty. It is fitted with 12 electric lights, between each of which is a candle. Each desk in the four reading rooms is fitted with a double-light chandelier of special design. The floor of the lobby is laid with ceramic mosaic tiling, the design which is placed immediately in front of the main entrance being of rare beauty and commanding the rooms the floors are made of cement tile. The wainscoting is of Italian marble with Tennessee base and is imposing in appearance.

In the basement are two large lavatories, which were fitted up by the Milligan company, together with wash stands and other accessories. The cement and terra cotta work were also furnished by the same firm. The hardware, which is of solid bronze, adds much to the other artistic work. In fact the entire interior is so handsomely fitted up that words are incapable of conveying even a vague idea of what it really looks like. It must be seen to be appreciated. The statue on the top of the dome was put up by the Milligan company.

The decorations in the lobby, which are placed on the frescoed walls, were done by George Myers, of Steubenville, who was hired by the Milligan company to do the work. It is gorgeously beautiful and very attractive.

It was long ago decided by the board of directors of the Carnegie library that the furniture was to be in keeping with the other elegant furnishings in the interior and this important detail was left for Lewis Bros. to look after.

How well this celebrated firm took care of the work entrusted to them is attested by an inspection of the library building. In the different rooms were placed 28 tables and 14 dozen chairs. These are made of quarter sawed golden oak and aside from the splendid and rich appearance of the different pieces all are calculated to wear almost as iron. In the large reading room to the right of the lobby are nine large tables and necessary chairs. Three of the tables were especially designed for boys and girls, being made lower so as to better accommodate the little ones. The chairs are fitted with box seats and rubber tips. The tips can be removed when worn and render the moving of chairs noiseless.

It is safe to say that no public building in the country is better equipped in the line of furniture than the Carnegie library and to Lewis Bros. is due the entire credit. No one can enter the building without being at once impressed with the grand display of art and beauty of which the furniture is foremost.
